

Business Picture Brightens With Steel Strike End

No Immediate Price Increase Seen but Inflation Talk Grows

BY STERLING F. GREEN

Washington —(AP)—The steel labor peace, bought for the next 2½ years at a billion-dollar price, loosed today a flood of political conjecture and stirred new misgivings over inflation.

The stock of Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sec. of Labor James P. Mitchell soared as a possible Republican ticket in the November election.

Suddenly illuminated by the political spotlight, Mitchell told questioners "I don't know and I don't care" whether the wage pact he announced yesterday enhanced his chance of becoming the GOP's vice presidential nominee.

The stock market spurted and officials issued bolder forecasts of 1960 prosperity as the settlement, engineered secretly by the Nixon-Mitchell team, erased fears of another economy-crippling strike by the 500,000 United Steelworkers.

No Immediate Increase Steel industry leaders forecast no "immediate" price boosts to crank up the wage-price spiral. But Chairman Roger M. Blough of United States Steel corporation, who put the billion-dollar cost tag on the agreement, said it "could hardly be regarded as non-inflationary."

There were no such misgivings. Turn to Page 5, Col. 2

25 Known Dead in Wreck Of Italian Commuter Train

Although Her Legs are broken and held in a traction device, six-year-old Diane Rowell manages a smile as she hugs a toy tiger in a Chicago hospital. The girl was injured when she ran from between two parked cars and was struck by a passing vehicle.

About 100 Hurt; Toll May Grow

BY LUCIANO FERRARI

Monza, Italy—(AP)—A jammed 10-car commuter train sped into a sharp curve today and the locomotive and five cars hurtled from the rails into a tangle of wreckage.

Some five hours later 25 dead had been counted, the transport ministry announced, but it was believed more bodies would be found. The ministry said about 100 persons were injured.

Engineer Killed The accident occurred in dense fog about two miles north of the station in this auto-racing capital of Italy. Monza is about 10 miles north-east of Milan.

The transport ministry said an initial investigation indicated the accident was caused by the failure of the engineer to observe a 6-mile-an-hour speed limit set for the stretch where the derailment occurred. The train appeared to this reporter—a passenger aboard—to be going about 45 miles an hour.

The engineer was among

Illinois Robber Slain, 2 Others Under Arrest

Dixon, Ill.—(AP)—Police seized three men early today for questioning in a $1,750 Davenport, Iowa, grocery holdup. One of the trio was shot and killed during a scuffle with officers over a gun he wielded.

Police Chief Earl Kelchner said the car carrying the three men ran a stoplight and was curbed after a brief chase. One of the occupants pulled a gun on Patrolman Jack McLaren, who knocked it from the assailant's hand.

McLaren said the unidentified gunman made a dive to retrieve the weapon, despite his warnings, and the policeman shot and wounded the man in the chest.

Kelchner said Davenport police, given a description of the trio, reported they apparently were the men who had held up a grocery store Monday night.

Look for Victory

See Enough Votes For Civil Rights

Washington —(AP)—Backers of civil rights legislation today claimed enough strength "if everybody stays hitched" to break a southern-held roadblock and force an early house vote.

The house floor leader of the civil rights forces, Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-NY) of the judiciary committee, made this estimate in a telephone interview from New York.

Meanwhile some top Democrats, returning to Washington tomorrow, talked of a strategy shift to let the explosive issue come to the blow-off stage first in the house.

Last year the house judiciary committee, after a bitter 3-way fight among northern and southern Democrats and Republicans, produced a bill watered down from its original terms but still extending civil rights legislation into the emotion-packed area of school desegregation.

The bill would make it a federal crime to interfere by violence or threats with court desegregation orders. It also would forbid registrars to destroy voting records before federal officials could examine them. Another provision would strike at bombings.

The legislation promptly ran into delaying tactics in the southern-led house rules

Nationalists Told U.S. Will Betray Them

Tokyo —(AP)—Three former nationalist Chinese generals, released after 10 years in communist prisons, have told their old comrades-in-arms on Formosa that the United States will betray them.

They gave interviews to communist reporters last month after their release in Peiping Dec. 13 and 14.

The generals are Tu Li-ming, one of the nationalists' ablest commanders and leader of large, U. S.-equipped forces in North China; Sung Hsi-lin, a commander in border areas and Wang Yao-wu, captured in East China and often reported executed by the Reds.

Read Red Literature

They indicated they had spent much time in prison reading communist literature and re-examining their "deas." They said they had not been physically mistreated.

Tu said he would spend the rest of his life advancing the communist cause.

All three in interviews addressed themselves to nationalist soldiers of Formosa, said Tu: "What have they to fear if they come back (to China)? The Americans are completely unreliable."

Streamline Plans for Anti-Missile Missile

Huntsville, Ala.—(AP)—The army today announced a system of streamlined management, designed to push development of the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile as fast as possible.

Col. John G. Zierdt, chief of staff of the army ordnance missile command, was named deputy commander of the army rocket and guided missile agency to head the program.

The army announcement said Zierdt "will in effect become Mr. Zeus."

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commander of the army ordnance missile command, said:

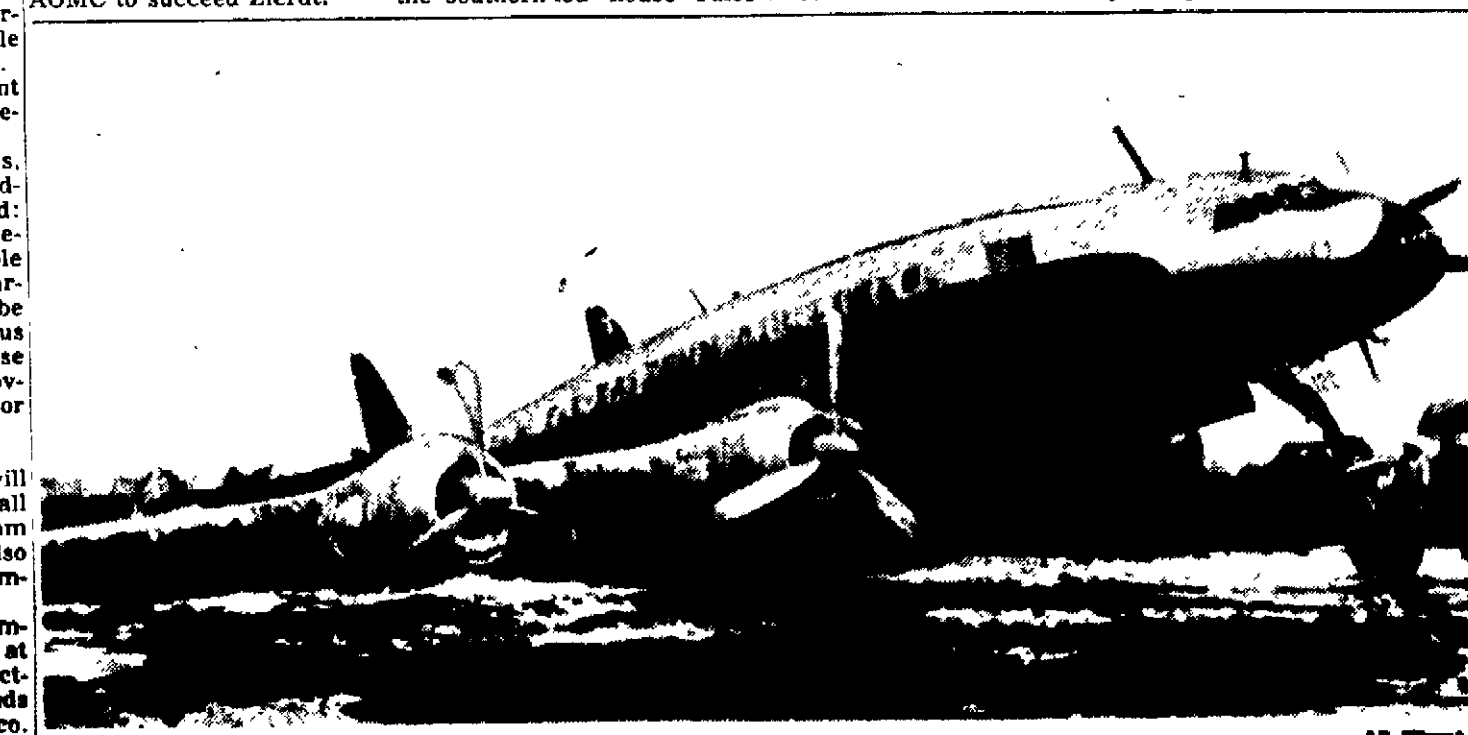

"By installing this management system, we will be able to swing as much of the arm's resources as may be necessary behind the Zeus development, whether these resources are within the government or our contractor organizations."

Given Command

The army said Zierdt "will have cognizance over all phases of the Zeus program and will be responsible also for representing the command in all Zeus matters."

It said officers of the command will be established at the plants of major contractors and at the White Sands missile range in New Mexico.

Western Electric company is the prime contractor. Douglas Aircraft company manufactures and assembles the missiles using gold-

Commented on Algerian Camps

Pro-Red Paper Seized in France

Paris —(AP)—The government today seized the pro-communist newspaper Liberation because of comments on conditions in Algeria's internment camps.

The government said the issue was confiscated because it commented on a report by an International Red Cross committee on conditions in the camps.

The independent newspaper Le Monde carried a resume of the 270-page report yesterday. It said the Red Cross committee had found conditions in the Algerian camps and prisons ranged from highly satisfactory to very unfavorable. Although Le Monde also commented on the report and pulled no punches, its issue was not seized.

Red Cross officials in Geneva expressed shock that the confidential report had been published. It was made after the mission had concluded a 6-week trip through Algeria in October and November visiting 82 internment camps, prisons and hospitals. Those held were mainly Algerian Moslem nationalists, although some European sympathizers were confined.

Feared Reprisals Le Monde published these details:

The mission paid two visits to the Bordj-Meniel camp. At the time of the first visit, the inmates were "completely terrorized" and pleaded with Red Cross officials to say nothing about camp conditions for fear of reprisals.

In an isolation cell a prisoner was found with broken ribs and bruises. He said he had suffered the injuries during questioning and had been without care for 48 hours.

"We couldn't help but think that the miserable conditions of this camp are wanted (by the authorities) and make up part of a system," the report said.

After speaking with the French commander in Algeria, Gen. Maurice Challe, the mission returned to the camp. It noted that "general conditions... were improved. We talked alone with many prisoners. The general atmosphere was transformed. There were no longer any serious complaints, mistreatment during questioning had stopped."

After publication of the report, Premier Michel Debre said the government welcomed Red Cross efforts and noted that it was the eighth time the organization had investigated conditions in Algeria with full government approval. He said the Algerian rebels refused to extend similar privileges to the Red Cross.

No Primaries For Symington

Missouri Senator Declares He's Not Avowed Candidate

Washington —(AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri said today he is not "an avowed candidate" for the Democratic presidential nomination and "I'm not entering any primaries."

But, under questioning at a news conference, Symington said he would take no action to withdraw his name from the Oregon presidential preference primary May 20, although he would not do any campaigning there.

Under the Oregon system, a potential candidate's name can be put on the ballot without his consent. Names of all major possibilities for the Democratic nomination are expected to be on the ballot. Symington called the news conference for the announced purpose of answering any questions newsmen might have about his recent trip to Africa, the Middle East and Europe.

Sheboygan Priest Dies in Church

Sheboygan —(AP)—The Rev. John J. Carroll, 55, pastor of St. Clement's Roman Catholic church, collapsed and died of a heart attack today in his church as he prepared to offer mass.

Father Carroll was stricken as he was putting on his vestments shortly before 8 a.m. A physician who was summoned pronounced him dead.

Father Carroll, pastor of St. Clement's since June, 1948, several years ago was on a panel of three clergymen — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — who attempted unsuccessfully to bring an end to the long and bitter strike at the Kohler plumbingware factory at Kohler. The panel met management and union representatives in his rectory.

Adenauer Has 84th Birthday Celebration

Bonn, Germany —Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said on his 84th birthday today a government's policy is ineffective unless backed by force.

He made the statement to West Germany's top generals. They came to his chancellery to offer birthday congratulations.

Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss praised Adenauer for taking the initiative in creating the new West German military forces. He said this year the republic's armed strength will pass the 250,000 mark.

Replying, Adenauer said: "In such times as these, the policy of a government has as much power as is behind it — and without power there can be no policy."

"Of course, peace must be preserved. But as long as the world is so torn apart, policy must have force behind it."

She is being held at the Eau Claire county jail because the Jackson county jail has no facilities for women prisoners.

Youth, 18, Admits Stabbing, Garroting Mother in Quarrel

Melrose, Mass., —An 18-year-old youth was held on suspicion of murder today after police quoted him as saying he killed his mother because she wouldn't allow him to marry his 16-year-old sweetheart.

Police said Richard T. Seaver admitted he killed his mother yesterday. An autopsy disclosed Mrs. Eleanor Lee Seaver, 42, had been stabbed 30 times.

Seaver said the slaying followed a violent argument with his mother after he asked her permission to marry a girl, identified by Boston police as a Negro.

When police went to Seaver's home they found his sister, Joanne, 11, with a baby.

Mrs. Eleanor Lee Seaver, 42, was stabbed 30 times, customarily sat with her scissors and a bread knife and that she was struck on the head with a hammer.

'Truth Serum' Used on Ohio Slaying Suspect

Floyd Hargrove Fills in Gaps in His Account of Christmas Eve Shooting

Painesville, Ohio —Under the influence of a "truth serum," Floyd E. Hargrove filled in some gaps in his account of the slaying of the husband of the woman he loved, authorities reported.

Then, Hargrove said last night, he slept peacefully for the first time since the Christmas eve slaying.

Hargrove, 35-year-old truck driver, told a reporter he had been confused and "in my mind I had rejected the reality that I killed (Charles R.) Clark."

Couldn't Believe
"I just couldn't make myself believe that I had done such a thing. I guess that's why the lie detector test showed me innocent."

Hargrove had admitted the slaying, authorities said, when he was questioned several hours after the death of Clark, 35, an engineer who was active in Boy Scout and church affairs. Hargrove and Clark's attractive, 30-year-old widow, Lois, have admitted they had an 8-month love affair last year.

Because of discrepancies in his story, Hargrove last week was given a lie detector test, and the polygraph expert who administered the test was convinced that Hargrove was lying when he admitted killing Clark.

One thing troubling authorities had been inability to find the .22 caliber rifle used in the slaying, and no trace of the weapon was found until yesterday, two hours after Hargrove was arraigned in municipal court here on a charge of first-degree murder.

Truth Serum
Under the influence of the so-called truth serum—sodium amytal—Hargrove led authorities to a place on the east branch of the Chagrin river. There a Mentor township fireman fished a rifle from two feet of water.

The rifle, recovered with a spent shell still in the chamber, is being sent to the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation at London to determine whether it fired the bullet that crashed through a kitchen window of a Mentor home and into Clark's right temple.

Hargrove had been vague on other details, authorities said. It was a friend, Dr. Stanley F. Wallace, Wickliffe psychiatrist, who suggested to Hargrove that he take the serum if all else failed.

Business Dealings
"He was known to have business and social dealings with members of the Mafia and other gangsters," said Burr.

This opinion was echoed by Police Chief Bernard Garmire, who said, "Sirota was under surveillance by us from time to time because of his companions. But we never had anything on him."

A check was being made through the FBI in Washington to determine whether the dapper 49-year-old real estate promoter who moved to Tucson from Los Angeles five years ago had any record.

Went Out
His body—the neck ringed by bruises and welts—was found Monday when a sheriff's investigator checked to the report of an abandoned car in the foothills northwest of Tucson.

"A white powdery substance was found on the floor of the car," said Burr, "and a chemical analysis is being made of it."

Sirota's wife, Mary, reported him missing Sunday when he failed to return after reluctantly agreeing to meet two men who persuaded him to leave home after three phone calls.

Youth Able to Stand Trial
Sparta —Psychiatrists informed Circuit Judge Lincoln Neprud Monday that Garold Rheinschmidt, 19, was mentally capable of standing trial on charges of first degree murder.

Drs. Michael Kasak and Joseph Weber, both of Milwaukee, were appointed by the court to examine Rheinschmidt, accused of slaying his aunt and uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Theron Morris were shot in their farm home near Cashton, Oct. 30.

Rheinschmidt, now a prisoner in the Monroe county jail, is scheduled for trial Jan. 11. He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Link Killing To Mafia Deal
Tucson, Ariz. —Lewis Sirota, found strangled in the trunk of his car, was linked to a number of Mafia associates today.

"Sirota had a knack for making enemies among racketeers and big business men," said Pima County Sheriff Waldon V. Burr.

"I've got a list of 18 names of people we want to question in this killing," said Burr, "and another four pages of names if they don't pan out." The sheriff refused to divulge any names.

Greenfield Man Dies From Smoke
Milwaukee —A fifty-one-year-old Albert Ehler of suburban Greenfield, died of smoke inhalation Monday when flames destroyed his home.

Other persons living in the same house escaped unharmed after smelling smoke.

Firemen were hampered in their efforts to subdue the flames because of a lack of water. The area does not have fire hydrants and tank trucks had to bring water to the scene.

Lee Miles, assistant fire chief for Hales Corners, said the cause of the blaze was not determined. He estimated damage at $15,000.

Fire departments from Greenfield, Hales Corners and Tes Corners answered the alarm.

Prosecution Opens Case
Finch Murder Jury to Visit Scene Where Doctor's Young Wife Died

Los Angeles —The Finch murder trial shifts today to the scene of suburban violence that brought it about.

The jury gets a look at the spot where Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch, 36, died last July 18, her skull fractured three and a half inches.

Her husband, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, and his mistress, Auburn-haired Carolee Tregoff, are accused of conspiracy and murder.

The prosecution charges that they plotted Mrs. Finch's death because she stood in the way of their marriage—and was demanding a big share of community property she estimated at $750,000.

Illicit Affair
Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whichello charged yesterday that the murder was the result of a year-long illicit affair between Dr. Finch, a handsome, 41-year-old tennis player, and the 23-year-old ex-model who was once his receptionist.

"This murder was committed by premeditation and lying in wait," the prosecutor said. "At the time Mrs. Finch returned to her home the defendants were waiting for her, with the attaché case, in the vicinity of the garage."

"As Mrs. Finch drove into the garage and stopped her car, one of the defendants stepped into the garage and struck her with a pistol. She screamed and resisted. There was a struggle."

This, Whichello said, was interrupted by the arrival of Mrs. Finch's 19-year-old Swedish maid, Marie Ann Ludholm. He said Mrs. Finch, was pursued, shot, and killed on the lawn of a neighboring home.

The pistol which killed her was never found.

Contents of Case
In a dry, college-professor voice, Whichello described the contents of the attaché case he said would be identified as the doctor's. He said it contained an 8-inch carving knife, two lengths of clothesline, an ampule of secobarbital (a sleep-inducing drug), a bottle of secobarbital tablets, a flashlight, two hypodermic needles and two syringes, a rubber sheet, and a box of 12 .38 Smith & Wesson caliber bullets.

"This combination of instruments," he said, "is not carried on the lawn of a neighboring home."

U. S. Senate Will Convene On Wednesday

Presidential Hopefuls Share Political Spotlight

Washington —The senate convenes tomorrow with a handful of presidential hopefuls sharing the spotlight.

Presiding over the body as it goes about the routine business of opening a new session of congress will be Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

With the way apparently cleared for him to get first prize at the Republican convention, Nixon will be busy keeping party fences mended and pushing President Eisenhower's program.

Simple Task
His will be a relatively simple task compared with that of the Democratic leader, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Besides being regarded as available for his party's nomination himself, Johnson will have to deal with three other major aspirants and at least one favorite son candidate in a legislative session where politics promises to be the dominant factor.

Johnson's answer to the jockeying likely to go on between Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) probably will be to give each of them every opportunity he wants to take the spotlight. Kennedy and Humphrey are announced candidates, Symington is classified as available.

Party critics of Johnson's leadership tactics will get a chance to air their complaints. A party caucus scheduled for Thursday afternoon will permit Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) to renew his criticism of Johnson if he chooses to do so. He spoke out several times last year.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), who has said his name will be entered in the May 20 Oregon primary, also will get the room he wants from Johnson to make known his usually vigorous views on a variety of subjects.

Johnson apparently plans to play by ear the development of his own prospects for the presidential nomination. He is expected to maintain the position that he isn't a candidate and doesn't believe he will be nominated, but wouldn't turn down a convention offer of the prize.

The prosecution charges that they plotted Mrs. Finch's death because she stood in the way of their marriage—and was demanding a big share of community property she estimated at $750,000.

Illicit Affair
Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whichello charged yesterday that the murder was the result of a year-long illicit affair between Dr. Finch, a handsome, 41-year-old tennis player, and the 23-year-old ex-model who was once his receptionist.

"This murder was committed by premeditation and lying in wait," the prosecutor said. "At the time Mrs. Finch returned to her home the defendants were waiting for her, with the attaché case, in the vicinity of the garage."

"As Mrs. Finch drove into the garage and stopped her car, one of the defendants stepped into the garage and struck her with a pistol. She screamed and resisted. There was a struggle."

This, Whichello said, was interrupted by the arrival of Mrs. Finch's 19-year-old Swedish maid, Marie Ann Ludholm. He said Mrs. Finch, was pursued, shot, and killed on the lawn of a neighboring home.

The pistol which killed her was never found.

Contents of Case
In a dry, college-professor voice, Whichello described the contents of the attaché case he said would be identified as the doctor's. He said it contained an 8-inch carving knife, two lengths of clothesline, an ampule of secobarbital (a sleep-inducing drug), a bottle of secobarbital tablets, a flashlight, two hypodermic needles and two syringes, a rubber sheet, and a box of 12 .38 Smith & Wesson caliber bullets.

"This combination of instruments," he said, "is not carried on the lawn of a neighboring home."

Police Restrain James Brown, 28, as he struggles near the bedside of his alleged victim in a New York hospital. The victim, Patrolman Harold Hill, 31, was shot as he chased Brown who allegedly snatched a woman's purse. Screaming school children also joined in the chase. Brown was captured by city policemen.

U of W Faculty Recommends Elimination of Loyalty Oath

Also Asks Congress to Bring End To Compulsory Military Training

Madison —Elimination of the loyalty affidavit from the national defense education act and the end of compulsory military training at the University of Wisconsin and its branches was recommended by faculty members Monday.

The faculty voted to continue accepting NDEA funds but said it would ask congress to erase the loyalty affidavit requirement for students wishing to borrow funds to continue their education.

Students borrowing money under the plan must sign an affidavit saying they are not members of organizations listed as subversive by the U.S. attorney general and must also state they do not believe in such organizations.

Contrary To Freedom
The faculty said the affidavit interferes with a citizen's freedom by infringing on his beliefs and is contrary to the freedom of inquiry which the act was intended to promote.

It also invites other undesirable federal controls on higher education, the faculty said. So far the university has received $127,794 under the program. The faculty decided to reopen the question of withdrawal from the plan at a later date instead of adhering to a faculty committee suggestion to set Dec. 31 as a cutoff date for university participation if the loyalty affidavit is not eliminated.

Military Training
The recommendation to end compulsory military training is subject to approval by army and air force officials. It was sent to the board of regents for expected approval.

The change would apply to students and campus here, Milwaukee and at university extension centers around the state.

The proposal to drop reserve officer training corps curriculum followed a 1959 legislative decision to permit the faculty and regents to make such a change. Such training has been compulsory for all male students at the university since prior to World War II. Only veterans, National Guard and reserve group members were exempt.

ROTC Program
The plan recommended to replace the ROTC program would permit the faculty to require a curtailed military orientation program for male freshmen students.

Wisconsin's stand against the affidavit provisions is the first taken by a land grant institution. Harvard and Yale universities dropped out of the NDEA program last November.

A land grant institution is one of the many state universities, agricultural or industrial colleges in the U. S. receiving government lands or funds under the federal land grant acts of 1862 and 1890.

Exchange of Visits Aids Reds, Newsman Says

NBC Reporter in Moscow Declares Russia Benefits by Acquiring More Respectability

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—President Eisenhower's visit to Russia will aid only Nikita Khrushchev and the Russian position in international affairs.

This was the view expressed Monday by Joseph Michaels, an NBC reporter stationed in Moscow, at a joint meeting of Green Bay service clubs.

Americans are believing what they want to believe about Russia instead of realizing the Russian objective toward the United States is unchanged regardless of repeated references to "the spirit of Camp David," Michaels said. Michaels, who covered Khrushchev's visit to the United States said the only important result from the visit was that Russia acquired respectability at the expense of the United States.

"Mr. Khrushchev does not want war, but like any other communist he wants to bring us down. We in America are underestimating this. Though the direct challenge might not be so obvious, what Russia proposes to attack us with is generalized and subversive," Michaels said.

Michaels said he meant such weapons as Russia's giving economic help to uncommitted nations while repeating peaceful phrases toward the United States.

Michaels said the main product of Eisenhower's trip to Russia would be like what was produced by Khrushchev's visiting the United States—boosting Russia's standing in the world.

"I don't think Mr. Khrushchev cared what he saw when he came to the United States. He came here to sell a bill of goods, and, from what I hear, he succeeded."

Ike's Trip

"When President Eisenhower goes to Russia, he will give increased stature to Khrushchev. He will increase the stature of Russia among other nations and will weaken the position of this country.

"I don't see how the president will accomplish anything by going to Russia. He will display his wonderful personality but the effect of his wonderful personality to the average Russian is of no consequence whatever," Michaels said.

Michaels said material things Khrushchev saw probably made an impression only as a goal for Russia. The only glimmer of hope Michaels saw from the visit was that Khrushchev was impressed by the honesty of the American press.

Michaels concluded the United States exhibition in Moscow last summer had been effective and that "one of the ways you could tell how effective it was by the bitter attacks against it in the press."

"They had to knock this thing down. People were flocking in by the hundreds of thousands. It couldn't help but be effective," he said.

Industrial and transportation inefficiency in Russia is comforting to Americans, Michaels said. But placed against this, he said, are the facts that Russia produces 31 times as many engineers as the U. S. and pays teachers as much or more as is paid technical workers.

Rahr Tax Refund Suit Against U. S. Settled

Milwaukee—A settlement of a $277,277 federal tax refund suit, filed by the Rahr Maltting company of Manitowoc, for $92,400 was disclosed Monday.

The company asked the refund because of losses sustained when it could not maintain inventories at a proper level due to a freight car shortage during the Korean conflict.

The suit said the firm could not buy the required amount of barley in 1950 and as a result had to purchase more than one-million bushels the following year at a higher price.

Man Must See New Year as Plan of God

Tensions of Soul Must be Brought To Him for Relief

As we begin the new year it is important that man reckon the coming and going of the years as a part of God's plan and God's providence, the Rev. John Seidler, pastor of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church, said Rev. Seidler in his sermon Sunday.

"Life is under a strain for the most part. Physically, we are weighed down with numerous tasks and activities. Mentally, we are living under the tensions of all sorts of responsibilities and worries. Spiritually, we have fears and anxieties about eternal values," the Rev. Mr. Seidler said.

All kinds of remedies are available for the tired mind and body, but it is the concern of the church to see we enter the new year in the true Christian spirit, and to supply relief for the troubled soul, the pastor said.

Problems of Youth
The first of the problems in relieving the troubled soul is "intention," or what a man decides he will do with his life. This is especially a problem during youth as the young person sets ideals and plans for the future.

"Such problems unanswered, or wrongly answered, will bring frustration—a soul in trouble. . . . When we come face to face with the tensions of life, we dare not be satisfied with false prosperity."

The pastor said man must take his soul to task and ask why it is disquieted. "We ought not rest until we come up with his answer, 'Hope thou in God.'" When we approach the new year in the light of God's providence, our intentions will develop into noble, inspired living."

As man matures he comes to grips with present realities, or "attentions." It is a time when man questions how he does his work, how he treats his fellow man, and how he treats God, the pastor said.

He said man must again search his soul when he is an adult to find if he is headed in the wrong direction. An honest submission to God will bring about a redirection and rebirth.

The third problem is the "intentions" man faces in the later years of life. He becomes aware of forgiveness because he realizes the devastations of sin. He also is aware of salvation, and realizes how important life was when he remembers how Christ died on the cross.

"All of the blessings of life come to us by the providence of God. How wonderful it is to know we are in the hands of God, that he will provide for all the needs of body and soul."

Suppression of Information Is Not Popular

Courts have broad powers in the handling of cases which come before them but there is pretty good evidence that most of them are reluctant to suppress any information which appears to be important to the public's understanding. Recently four of six judges of the Federal District Court for Eastern Michigan agreed to suppress information about a civil suit which was pending before the court.

There had been no rule on this matter until a newspaper reporter inquired about the case. It was then that Chief Judge Theodore Levin summoned three other judges of the district and they adopted a rule which they reduced to writing specifying that any party or his attorney may obtain an order for hiding his action by filing a petition with any judge of the court. The rule stated "No person shall examine or publish, in whole or in part, any paper so suppressed, until such action, or any phase, be heard in open court, or upon the order of the judge to whom such action is assigned."

The rule further directed the court clerk to keep the papers locked up. The reporter seeking the information was brushed off with a copy of that rule. However, the Detroit newspapers decided to resist this gag rule and the Detroit News challenged the court to bring contempt proceedings against it. It announced that it would violate the rule at the first opportunity and the following day it published a lengthy article giving the details of the case. The story appeared to be as complete as any newspaper article would have been on the same suit if the record had been open. At the same time the newspaper challenged the court to act against it for its "contempt" which it said was "purely technical and purely intentional."

The situation had all the elements of a dramatic struggle. However, nothing happened for several days. When the court was asked why it had not acted to punish the newspaper for its intentional contempt the court put the whole question aside with the statement that the article published about the case had not come from the record which the court had suppressed. Of course the article had not come directly from the record because the record was under lock and key but the article apparently contained as much information as would have been available from the record and obviously published the facts which the court had intended to suppress. However, the court was right since there had been no examination of the record and thus no contempt.

The case indicates there is a great area in the relationships of the court and the public that needs clarification. The judges in attempting to justify the suppression in this case spoke of the "inherent right" of the court to set up such rules. Judge Levin said, "There wasn't any real published rule but we know that each district court can make its own rules if they do not conflict with the U. S. Supreme Court rules."

Nevertheless many people rather closely connected with the courts and legislation relating to them apparently were not informed on this inherent power of the court.

Sen. Hart of Michigan, a former United States attorney, George C. Doub, assistant U. S. attorney general, and many others including justice department officials in Washington expressed amazement and almost disbelief that the court could have adopted such a rule. Donald B. MacGuiness, chief of the general litigation section of the justice department, said he was surprised at the action taken by the Detroit federal judges.

Nevertheless, the courts do have this right and it often is practiced but comes to the attention of the public only when it involves a case of general interest such as the one in Detroit. The chief clerk of the federal court in Detroit examined his records recently and found there were three suppressed suits on file there since 1957. He added that in his 25 years in office he thought there had been perhaps 20 suppressed suits.

It appears unlikely there will be many others in the Detroit area in the near future.

Sen. Humphrey's Problems

While we were trying the other day to summon a feeling of surprise that Sen. Humphrey should have decided to run for the Democratic presidential nomination, our thoughts were diverted toward some of the technical problems our Minnesota neighbor will encounter as he courts the people's backing for election to the highest office in the land.

The voluble senator already has let us know that he is worried about a campaign chest. He cannot organize the kind of a campaign machine he probably ought to have, he has lamented. He also will be engaged in the Congress at a time when he ought to be on the stump. These are burdensome disabilities, no doubt, but there are others that occur to us.

For example, our political folklore, in this century at least, appears to require that we use familiar names for our political leaders. The affectionate diminutive is peculiarly the product of the politics of the 20th century, we suppose. We now have "Ike" in the White House. The successor the Republicans of the country appear to have settled upon is universally known as "Dick." There are Gov. "Pat" of California, and Gov. "Soapy" of Michigan, and Sen. "Stu" of Missouri, and Sen. "Jack" of Massachusetts among Mr. Humphrey's rivals, real or potential.

In our own state we have been familiar with "Sen. Joe," and "Old Bob" and "Young Bob," and we used to hear the strained use of "Rennie" once in a while to describe former Gov. Rennebohm.

In other days we had a respectful form of the familiar in "FDR" and "Old Abe." We doubt that anyone in Revolutionary times ever referred to "Tom" for Mr. Jefferson of the commonwealth of Virginia, or that Mr. Hamilton would have answered to "Alex," as our own senior senator of today is delighted to do.

But those were simpler times, when the copy desk men of the press, for example, didn't have the problems they have today. The Democratic nominee of 1952 and 1956 became "Adlai" to millions who voted for him, and more millions who didn't, because the desk men of America found his short first name convenient for their purposes. The "Ike" of the White House had about the same origin.

But to revert to our first worry, what about the unfortunate Mr. Humphrey? Can we use "Hub"? Somehow it doesn't click. We note that some headline writers have experimented with "Humph," but that has a faintly derisive sound and appearance, and especially from Republican mouths. Let the mothers of future presidential aspirants ponder these matters, and let us spare a sympathetic thought for the beleaguered Humphrey publicity men probably mulling these difficult matters tonight.

The Lipstick Ban

The Food and Drug Administration last November put out an order banning the use in lipsticks of certain coal tar colors which, it said, had caused death and illness in test rats. The ban was slated to go into effect Jan. 6, 1960, but because of a protest by lipstick manufacturers the date has been postponed.

The manufacturers declare that most lipsticks on the American market would be affected by this order. The 17 pigments of red, yellow and orange which the F. D. A. included in the ban are necessary ingredients and have been used for many years in the manufacture of lipsticks. The manufacturers protested that the ban would ruin much of the industry whose retail sales are estimated at some $80 million annually.

The lipstick makers are said to be waiting for the cranberry situation to slow down before they launch a loud protest. They will demand a change in the law which now permits the use of only those colors which the F. D. A. has certified as harmless for use in foods, drugs and cosmetics. There are 130 dyes in this approved list but none is suitable for lipsticks, the makers say. The F. D. A. conducted a 90-day test of feeding these dyes to laboratory rats. Some of the animals died, others showed retarded growth, still others liver and kidney damage, enlarged spleens, anemia and other ailments. But because cancer was not involved the drastic order used on cranberries was not invoked. If the order goes into effect it is believed it will not apply to lipsticks already made but will prevent the manufacture of any others using these materials.

This department has conducted a poll on a very modest basis among the people most concerned. We have learned that the users of lipstick are, according to this poll, unanimously opposed to Welfare Sec. Fleming's activities in the lipstick field and to this order of the F. D. A. The outlook is not promising. The same consumers who would not buy cranberries under any circumstances while the ban was on have no such qualms about lipsticks. We are ready to predict that the manufacturers will have strong support in their effort to change the law.

Youngsters Learn Geography While Playing at School

Children Prefer Sitters to Santa

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer

If you want the truth, it is said, ask a child. Which is nicer — a pretty girl or an old man with whiskers and too much around his middle who goes around saying "Ho, ho, ho"?

A number of children of Copenhagen, Denmark, have answered the question so thoroughly, that instead of hiring male students to double for Santa Claus in traditional garb, a baby sitters' association has lined up attractive female students to take over the job, minus beard and "Ho, ho, ho."

Those Danish kids have rare intelligence.

Ag Coordinator Disagrees With Wyngaard on Marketing Bill

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The article last week by Mr. John Wyngaard on the farm marketing bill recommended by Gov. Nelson indicates a basic misunderstanding of the issue.

Mr. Wyngaard argues that "if the state of Wisconsin arbitrarily decided to raise the price of milk the buyers in Chicago and elsewhere would be forced to turn to other production areas." This argument completely misrepresents the real purpose and method of the farmers' self-help marketing programs that would be permitted under this legislation. No one contemplates that farmers would "arbitrarily decide to raise the price of milk." Instead, farmers would be enabled to regulate the quality and other characteristics of their products so as to create what economists call a "differentiated" product.

For example, they might produce a Swiss cheese product that could be identified readily by consumers because of its superior, uniform, and dependable quality and its distinctive taste and other characteristics. Such a "differentiated" product could be marketed under a distinctive grade label or brand name, which would lend itself to advertising and market promotion efforts aimed directly at stimulating consumer interest in the specific "differentiated" product.

The aim of such a marketing program would be, (1) to create a distinctive product worthy of a premium price in the market; (2) to promote consumer demand for that product through advertising and market-building efforts; and (3) to enable farmers to control the merchandising of that product so as to secure the premium which it commands in the market.

This is exactly what the producers of "Diamond" walnuts, "Sun-Maid" raisins, "Sun-Kist" oranges, and several other distinctive and nationally-known food products have done. They have used similar marketing programs to accomplish their goals. Their success has been outstandingly conspicuous in a decade of general farm price declines.

It is true in many respects that the marketing problems of raisins, citrus, and nut producers are less complex than those of dairy producers. The difference, however, is primarily one of degree. Dairy marketing is tending more and more toward the "brand name" form of merchandising. The demand for premium-quality dairy products at premium prices is probably limited. This makes it important to give Wisconsin producers a head-start. Whoever is first to get his products and brand names established will have a big advantage over subsequent competitors.

This is the kind of merchandising that the owners of nationally-advertised "brand names" carry on excepting on a small, local scale. But a sufficiently large group of farmers, by agreeing to regulate their own marketing activities in accordance with majority rule, can do it. The success of "Sun-Kist" and "Diamond" and "Sun-Maid" proves that. Through self-help majority-rule programs such as this, farmers can get many of the marketing advantages of big concentrated businesses, yet retain their independence and the decentralized ownership of our traditional American family-farming system.

Farmers can devise an unlimited variety of marketing programs under this legislation, to suit their particular needs and wishes. Some may want to do nothing more than contribute to a fund for advertising or research; other groups may wish to develop highly differentiated products and intensive, full-scale merchandising plans. It is for the latter that supply and surplus regulating provisions would be necessary.

It is a complete misconception to think of these in terms of "production control." Rather, such provisions would be used for inventory management. Every merchant maintains his regular price for winter goods during the season, and waits until his spring sale to reduce his prices to dispose of his surplus. This enabling legislation would give farmers the same opportunity to protect the value of their brand names and the money they spend to advertise and promote markets, by giving them similar control over their own inventories.

The legislation recommended by Gov. Nelson represents a sharp departure from the approach of direct governmental action to control the farm economy through costly and cumbersome soil bank schemes, surplus purchases, and so on. It places the burden of planning, developing, administering, and financing programs directly upon the farmers who are affected. It does not promise sudden solution of the farm income problem; other federal and state action will continue to be necessary. But it does give farmers an opportunity to start building the kind of marketing operations which have made several farming industries in other states as secure and successful as other types of American businesses.

This approach has been supported by conservatives in both parties as an alternative to the more traditional farm programs. It is ironic now to find, in Wisconsin, that it is attacked by the same interests who have criticized other attempts to help the farmers. Mr. Wyngaard might have presented a more accurate view of this legislation if he had consulted informed dairy marketing experts, at the College of Agriculture or elsewhere. Wisconsin's dairy marketing organizations and unions in a decade of general farm price declines.

Mr. Wyngaard does raise a legitimate question as to the justification for giving this power to farmers to control their own marketing for their own benefit. A fair answer must be that farmers do indeed deserve help to strengthen their market position.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that in 1958, dairy farmers in eastern Wisconsin, with average investments of $40,000 per family, received an average return per hour of labor of only 38 cents. This is far lower than the "fair" returns protected by law for other workers and industries through such measures as the minimum wage, regulated utility rates, tariff "escape clauses," oil and minerals supply and import regulations, and corporation tax concessions. The proposed farm enabling act is substantially similar in scope and purpose to laws which enable investors to form corporations, workers to form labor unions, and such professions as law and medicine to regulate themselves.

American farm income in 1960, according to official U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates, will have the lowest real purchasing power of any year since 1934. Who can deny the fairness and justice of strengthening the farmers' position in our economy, to give farm people a better chance to share more equitably in our rising standard of living?

Teachers Favor Union System

79 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Jan. 6, 1881.

The Crescent understands that the public school teachers of the city have unanimously agreed to recommend to the Common Council the adoption of a union school system.

The principal arguments in its favor are, as all who have watched its operation elsewhere will freely concede, its complete uniformity and greater efficiency, to which can be added from the experience of the "mixed" district system existing in Appleton, decided economy in expenditures.

The only difficulty that suggests itself to our mind is the proper adjustment of powers between the Board of Education and the Common Council to avoid conflict and secure the highest efficiency and to bring the former board more directly responsible to the people.

The unpopularity of the Racine system once tried here was largely due to the friction between the board, the council and the people. The Crescent is of the opinion that the Oshkosh system

Rockefeller Learned Political Facts Here

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—From a strictly local point of view, the reasons for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination became easier to understand when Wisconsin's liberal, including the Democrats, expressed deep distress, real or pretended.

The Republicans, for the most part, appeared to be able to survive the news without special discomfiture. The men who represent the Republican viewpoint in Wisconsin politics regarded the New Yorker with interest, and with considerable cordiality, when he came around a fortnight ago in an obvious solicitation of their support. But only a handful of them committed themselves.

But the spokesmen for Democrats spoke out with enthusiasm. Perhaps the flavor of this irony was best exhibited when the Democratic governor of Wisconsin spent most of his news conference time expressing sadness that his colleague from New York had been forced out of the race, as he put it.

THE ABSURDITY
Much of the quadrennial discussion of presidential dairy leaders of both political parties are supporting this legislation almost unanimously.

Mr. Wyngaard does raise a legitimate question as to the justification for giving this power to farmers to control their own marketing for their own benefit. A fair answer must be that farmers do indeed deserve help to strengthen their market position.

politics in this early primary state misses an essential point:

It is that the Republican candidate for the presidency will be chosen by the Republican national convention, a hall composed of working Republican politicians, and not by the Democrats.

What Gaylord Nelson thinks about Nelson Rockefeller as a Republican candidate may be interesting, on a dull news conference morning, but it is scarcely pertinent. A political reporter with any sense of the realities of his job would be more interested in asking the Republican chairman of Nelson's home county of Polk. He might conceivably have something to say about such matters. Democrat Nelson won't.

The fact is that Gov. Rockefeller came into Wisconsin, and into other states, for the very practical purpose of discovering whether he had a fair chance to get the backing of the politicians who will be at the convention or will have something to say about who will be in that convention hall. He discovered that he wouldn't, for a variety of reasons, among which was the fact that most of the decision makers are already committed to Vice President Nixon for what they regard as sufficient reasons.

There persists in liberal political circles the idea that the liberals should be able to control the nominations of both parties. There were signs of that desire through much of the publicity that attended the Rockefeller exploratory tour, including the repeated allegations that the Wisconsin Republican organization somehow managed to keep the New York governor out of contact with the people and that therefore he probably didn't get an accurate view of the Wisconsin outlook.

THE STORY

To phrase it most charitably, such suggestions were inaccurate.

Rockefeller's Wisconsin itinerary was worked out with him. He saw the people he wanted to see, and they told him the truth. As a realist he knew that it didn't matter much if the Democrats and their allies were nice to him and cheered him on, for they would not be on his side in the balloting here in April, or in the hall at Chicago.

No realist with any pretense to understanding of current Wisconsin politics disagreed with Rockefeller's finding. Everybody who looked at the prospects without blinders knew that he could have won a few delegates here, but only at a terrific investment of energy and money, and at the price of disrupting perhaps fatally the Republican party organization which can now face the future with fair unity. Meanwhile the pretense of disillusionment by the Democratic politicians and their publicists can only militate against him as one of the challenging and promising figures in his party.

Italian Train Crashes During Severe Fog

those killed, and his helper was seriously injured.

There were about 1,000 passengers on the train, most of them factory or office workers on their way to jobs or students on their way to school.

The train was pulled by an electric locomotive. It sped across a temporary bridge and whipped into the curve when the accident occurred.

The bridge had been erected as part of extensive repairs to the rail line on the outskirts of Monza.

This reporter, a passenger in the fifth car of the train, felt the train's brakes grab just as it entered the curve, apparently too late.

The locomotive hurtled off the rails in a terrific scream of metal grinding against metal.

Many Calls For Help

The second coach, filled with workmen, turned upside down.

The third car hurtled into the air and landed on the roof of a 2-story factory, 100 feet from the tracks. A few survivors crawled out. Inside there were many injured, shouting for help.

The fourth coach flipped on its side and bounced right-side-up again. From the top a 27-foot length of rail pointed toward the sky. It had knifed through the coach, stabbing through a Catholic priest and two other passengers.

The fifth coach skidded on its left side for 100 yards. Many of its passengers were bruised and some were badly injured. They crawled through windows and along the ground on their stomachs to get clear.

Cables Break

The sixth coach was pulled from the rails, but it remained upright. Only the last four coaches stayed on the rails.

Fog was so thick you couldn't see from one car to the next.

The overhead electric cables, which power the electric locomotives on the line, snapped like violin strings. Passengers had to move carefully through them to get away from the wreckage.

The train was behind schedule. Usually trains slow down to about 20 miles an hour to cross the bridge. The engineer may have been trying to make up time, or perhaps he failed to see a signal to slow down in the fog.

The moans and screams of the injured rent the air.

Passengers crawled from the windows of the derailed cars on the ground.

Sirens and honking horns of fire trucks, ambulances and police cars drowned out the shouts of the injured, who were lined up by the dozens between the rails.

There were about 100 passengers in the fourth car, with the rail sticking through the roof, and survivors poured out of doors and windows.

Some who were slightly hurt helped drag out the more seriously injured.

Hunts for Father

A 50-year-old factory worker walked two steps from the coach, clutched his chest and fainted. A young factory girl walked out screaming "My arm! Oh! My arm!" Her broken right arm swung loosely like a pendulum.

Other passengers held a slightly injured girl to keep her from re-entering a coach. "My father is in there," she cried.

Her father, trapped behind a smashed compartment door did not answer calls to him.

Another girl and her father emerged from opposite sides of a car. Their joyful reunion and embrace almost ended in tragedy. They fell on the prospect that a later settlement would be "at a high price"; or, action by congress forcing a settlement—"and in a presidential election year you can conjure up what would be considered," the secretary said.

Mitchell last night virtually killed the possibility that the administration will propose or support stiffer federal laws to avert strike emergencies in 1960.

Such legislation needs study and calm deliberation "completely outside the political arena," he told reporters, and this could not be obtained in a presidential election year. He expressed belief the rest of the administration shares his view.

In Augusta, Ga., President Eisenhower and Press Sec. James C. Hagerty preserved an unaccustomed silence, as if deliberately to let the political limelight play on the Nixon-Mitchell twosome.

Hagerty commented that Eisenhower was "gratified," but he quickly put in another plug for Nixon, who is virtually conceded the GOP presidential nomination. Said Hagerty: "The president has always given him important chores,

"We emerge from these negotiations with the greatest contract, the best conditions the Steelworkers have ever enjoyed," he proclaimed.

Neither the rank-and-file nor the public yet knew the precise contract terms. Their formal disclosure waited on some formalities—ratification by individual companies and by the union's wage policy board.

Approval Certain

The latter 171-man body was scheduled to meet and vote at 2 p.m. here, after a 12:30 p.m. session of the USW executive committee.

Sec. Mitchell, tiredly describing the pact as the "most feasible and practical solution that is possible at this time," said there was no question whatsoever that the approvals would be given.

Unofficially it was learned the 30-month contract package amounts to about 40 cents an hour, with fringe benefits effective at once and 7-cent hourly wage boosts taking effect in late 1960 and late 1961.

The industry gave up its demand for the sole right to change work rules. McDonald had branded this a union-busting device. The issue will be studied by a joint committee—whose findings will not be binding.

Accepted Reluctantly

The union won sizable pension improvements and a limited form of cost-of-living wage escalation. The companies will pay the whole cost of medical and hospital insurance, previously shared by workers and employers.

The companies swallowed this package reluctantly. Mitchell said he and Nixon, in perhaps a dozen secret meetings over the last month, won their assent by painting a "very realistic picture of the alternatives."

He listed the alternative: Another agonizing shutdown; the sloping embankment beside the track and slid to within a foot of a live high-voltage wire, snapped loose from its overhead mooring by the crash.

Later train crews and firemen lowered the third car. It was believed some passengers were still inside.

ever since 1952. He's a working vice president for the first time in the history of the United States."

Hit at Delay

Many of the Democrats commenting contended that the administration should have stepped in long before this. They said a settlement could have been reached much earlier with much less damage to the economy and loss of workers' wages.

At the same time, they stood ready to pin on Nixon and Mitchell the blame for any inflationary effects which may develop from operation of the new contract.

There were unconfirmed reports the administration had good reason to believe that major steel producers would post no general steel price increases in 1960. Mitchell refused comment on this, saying "that's for the industry to say."

But, like Blough, he said he believed the companies "will not need to increase steel prices immediately," although—as he noted—many factors besides wages can affect steel costs.

Blough in New York said U. S. Steel, the industry's wage and price pace-setter, "proposes to continue the general level of its prices for the immediate future."

The incident was reminiscent of the boy-in-the-box case in February, 1958, that touched off a furor in South Korea. But no immediate South Korean reaction was evident.

Major newspapers carried the army's statement on the affair without comment.

The box case involved a Korean boy caught stealing at a U.S. Army base near Inchon. He was smeared with tar, dumped in a box and flown to an airfield 25 miles away. A U.S. officer and an enlisted man were punished.

Kingsbury said the two women, Kim Chong-cha, 21, and Kim Ae-soon, 30, were caught "awakening the sleeping soldiers for purposes of soliciting for prostitution."

"It is doubtful that they were acquainted with the men in the unit," he continued. "They just came in through a hole in the fence . . . and grabbed the first man. That is the general procedure. They are quite aggressive."

He said the awakened soldiers, took the women to company headquarters where "the first sergeant and another sergeant proceeded to cut their hair off with scissors and a razor."

The women later were turned over to Korean police and released after questioning. Kingsbury said they were registered prostitutes who admitted they had entered the camp in search of customers.

another major producer, said his firm "has no present plans to change its prices."

But the magazine Steel said price boosts inevitably will come. These probably will be selective, with the industry avoiding across-the-board increases, the magazine said.

Two Republicans in congress also issued inflation warnings. Rep. Clarence Brown (Ohio) said he feared the pact would "give another upward twist to the inflationary spiral." Sen. George D. Aiken (Vt.) cautioned that "a price increase now is not going to endear either side."

Do We Have To Die?

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long-hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man power mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields. To that eternal question, "Do we have to die?" his answer is astounding.

The author states the time has come for this long-hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9,000-word treatise—which reveals many startling results—to sincere readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. Gov. to Speak For Dedication Of Local Plant

Annual Sales Talks
At Badger-Northland
Set for Next Week

Kaukauna — Gov. Gaylord Nelson will speak at the dedication and sales conference at Badger-Northland Monday. Vincent Rohlf, Badger president, announced.

An open house is planned in conjunction with the dedication. The firm added a $50,000 wing during the last year doubling its capacity and output.

Salesmen and distributors from throughout the United States and Canada will be on hand for the dedication and for conferences. Monday's program will open with a luncheon at the Kaukauna Elks followed by tours of the plant.

Mayor Joseph Payorgeson will extend the welcome on behalf of the city at 3 p.m. followed by a talk, "Ten Years of Progress," by the company president. Elmer Jennings, chairman of the board of the Thulmany Pulp and Paper company, will give a short talk on "What Badger Means To Kaukauna."

The speech by Gov. Nelson is scheduled from 3.30 to 4.30 p.m. An evening dinner is planned at the Hotel Northland, Green Bay, at which sales award winners will be honored.

Plant Addition

Work on the addition started early in spring and was completed in late summer, enabling the firm to move into quarters and begin operation at the busiest season. Badger-Northland employs over 250 persons, almost double the number working in 1958.

Rohlf reports sales increased almost $2,000,000 within the last fiscal year and anticipates an even greater increase at the end of the 1960 fiscal year due to the increased production and capacity of the new plant. The $50,000 addition doubles the size of the old building.

The addition is of concrete block and brick construction, about 250 by 125 feet. It incorporates about 25,000 square feet of floor space and has a 75 by 100-foot shipping or loading area offset from the main addition. Large overhead cranes were added in the new building to facilitate shipping and handling of materials.

The firm started operation in Greenleaf in 1946 and this year will mark its tenth anniversary in Kaukauna, having purchased Northland Engineering and moving shop here in 1950. Thus the dedication ties in with the anniversary and leads to the report by the president on the firm's growth in Kaukauna.

Kimberly Airl Pension Plan For Employees

Meeting Planned to Answer Questions on Establishing Program

Kimberly — The feasibility of setting up a pension plan for village employees came up for discussion at the initial meeting of the new year for the Kimberly village board.

Village President Alvin Fulcer reported information booklets had been furnished to most employees in an effort to ascertain their feeling toward such a plan, but as yet no reactions had been noted. Bernard Vanden Boogaard, trustee, suggested employees be contacted to see whether all would agree on a pension plan as 100 per cent participation would be needed.

Street commissioner Eugene Hietpas suggested a meeting be set up between employees and a representative of the firm to establish the pension plan to have questions answered. It was pointed out, the plan would prove expensive to the community, thus complete agreement of personnel would be needed before preliminary steps to establish the program could be taken. Fulcer agreed to set up the meeting as suggested by the street commissioner.

Purchase Truck
Board members approved purchase of a heavy duty truck to be used for snow plowing and other heavy work, costing $4,223. Mountings for the truck to enable its use as a plow was also approved. Cost of this was estimated at $350. Both items will be paid from the 1959 budget.

The village garbage truck is equipped with snow plowing mounts and these will remain on the truck for emergency purposes.

Pay increases of $10 per month, according to the salary schedule, were approved for the clerk-treasurer and the assessor. Renewal of membership in the League of Municipalities was approved.

The Army Corps of Engineers reported, the village request to start partial fill on the south shore of the Fox river near Sunset park would be studied and a report given

Kaukauna Merchants Win to Tie for City Cage Loop Lead

Kaukauna — Kaukauna Merchants moved into a first place tie in the City Basketball League Sunday afternoon by defeating Wiggle foods, 68-38.

The winners have four wins without a loss while the losers have yet to win a game in four starts. The second game saw Kappells decision Gustmans, 63-45. Kappells has a 2-2 mark while Gustmans is 0-4.

Second Contest

The Merchants jumped off to an 18-7 first period lead and increased the margin to 30-16 at halftime. The winners scored 11 in the third frame for a 41-22 lead at the end of the third period and then continued to widen the gap in the final quarter.

Gerry Hopfensperger paced the winners with 30 points while Bob Wahlers added 14. Ed Vanden Heuvel paced the losers with 12 points.

Kappells had a little trouble after publication of the request. The village desires to fill a bay in the area to make the site suitable for boat landing purposes. Since it affects a navigable stream, the Corps of Engineers must rule on the plan.

Ghosts Face Green Bay East Tonight

Kaukauna — In an effort to gain its seventh win of the season, the Kaukauna High school basketball team will entertain Green Bay East in a non-conference tilt tonight.

The Ghosts have a 6-1 record, the only loss being to Kimberly in a Mid-Eastern conference game.

East has been having trouble getting into the win column since its opening victory over Clintonville. The Red Devils have lost three straight in the Fox Valley conference.

Coach Jerry Hopfensperger's Ghosts will be getting their first taste of action since the holiday layoff. The squad has had several scrimmage sessions during the vacation including an impressive performance over Little Chute St. John.

Kaukauna victories this season have been over Wausau, Sheboygan North, Fond du Lac, New London, Two Rivers and Neenah.

Alvin Fulcer Reports On 1959, Looks to '60

Work in Assessment Field Expected to Be Big Item, Says Kimberly President

Kimberly — Village President Alvin Fulcer reviewed highlights accomplished in the community in 1959 and looked ahead to what can be expected in 1960 at the village board meeting Monday night.

Main objective in 1960 will be continued work in the assessment field, said Fulcer, through a complete description of all property and holdings in the village. Continued work on cost and record keeping also is scheduled for 1960.

Continued study of street lighting is planned, the sewerage plant modernization is expected to start, street construction and reconstruction work will continue. Sunset park will be developed, old and obsolete equipment will be replaced and work on sewer and water installation in the new Van Daalwyk plat will be undertaken, said the president.

Fulcer advised serious consideration in 1960 by the board of a complete review of the ordinance situation, a review and analysis of special assessments and machinery rental program and a study of village employees' pension plan. Also to be planned is a celebration marking the fiftieth anniversary of the community.

In reviewing 1959 Fulcer pointed to the first full year of operation with a full time clerk-treasurer and assessor, the completion of a $500,000 elementary school, the completion of the first public ment assured of competition. Funds will not be appropriated an activity which is not supported, said Gertz.

Merit Wage Boosts For 55 Asked

City Workers' Raises Would Cost $10,000; Aldermen Hit Action

Merit wage increases to about 55 city employees, costing the city about $10,000 annually, were recommended by the finance committee Monday night.

The increases would be effective Feb. 1. The committee denied a resolution by Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, asking that merit increases be made retroactive to when the first merit increases were granted the police department.

"I think the committee is acting in a discriminatory fashion to the rest of the city departments," she declared.

"Furthermore, these merit increases should not have come before the finance committee first," (without going through the council's regular order of presentation) she maintained.

A committee member insisted the committee was fair in its actions. "The increases are made effective when the department head requests it. Why should they be retroactive?" he asked.

Ald. Homer Malmstrom criticized the park board and fire and police chiefs for submitting "merit" increases "for all those men who didn't get very much in the wage change program last month. How can you call it 'merit' when everyone gets it on the basis he didn't receive as much as the chief thought he should have?" Malmstrom asked.

Malmstrom praised Director of Public Works Duszynski for submitting a list "based on real merit." He said he checked Duszynski's merit list against wage increases already granted and found "only five of 18 who got the 2-cent a hour boost last month included for merit increases this month. Those decisions were made on a merit basis," said Malmstrom.

Two committee members said they believed the chiefs had been honest in requesting merit increases "for those who didn't get as much as the rest."

Fire Chief Paul Neumann said, "They say I'm not considering merit. But I think I am. I feel as though I'm not asking for those who got a substantial raise, but only for those who deserved a little more."

The meeting was attended by three members of the street and sanitation committee, which spent two hours Monday afternoon deciding whether to recommend merit increases. At the end of the meeting, no action was taken, but Duszynski was told he could make the presentation as he had planned.

Contradictory Statement At the Monday night finance meeting, street and sanitation chairman Ald. Roy Pointer said, "Yes," when asked whether his committee had recommended the wage increases. "That's not true," another alderman said.

Pointer said the merit raises should be granted because the city had to compete with industry's wage offers. Merit increases recommended by the committee include 17 in the street department; five, sewage treatment plant; four, engineering department; six, sanitation department; three, electrical department; two, health department; seven, park department; seven, fire department; four, clerk's office.

The position of city forester also was recommended by the committee. A park department employee would receive the promotion and a merit increase in pay.

Funeral Arranged For Gunshot Victim

Funeral services for Conrad J. Prochaska, 77, who shot himself Sunday night in his room at 621 S. Memorial drive, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Wichmann Funeral home, with the Rev. Prochaska was born in Moravia, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 10, 1882, and was a widower. He had lived at the rooming house 11 years and retired two years ago after working at Valley Iron works. He came to the United States in 1908.

Stolen $3,000 Ruled Part of House Price

State Supreme Court Upholds Judge in Davidson Theft Case

A $3,000 down payment stolen by a real estate broker can be deducted from a home price, the state supreme court ruled today.

The high court upheld a ruling by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieghe made last April. The down payment, stolen by Merle E. Davidson, now in Waupun prison, was paid the broker by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Van Dyke as earnest money against an $11,500 purchase of their present home at 3304 E. Wisconsin road.

Davidson, representing Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Lauer, 1864 Harold street, Green Bay, took the money with the knowledge and consent of the Lauer couple on the basis of an agreement to sell. He was to have deposited the money in a trust account, but used the money for his own purposes.

Stole $38,350

Davidson was sent to prison for stealing down payments totaling $38,350 from 35 clients. He fled Appleton in September, 1957, and was captured by the federal bureau of investigation in Des Moines, Iowa, in December of that year. He was sentenced to a number of consecutive and concurrent terms ranging up to 12 years.

The Van Dyke case was the first civil case stemming from the thefts which came to trial. Van Dyke filed suit to force Lauer to turn over the deed to the property in agreement with the selling agreement, both signed. Lauer refused, claiming he should be paid the $3,000 Davidson stole.

Both parties agreed they had made an agreement through Davidson for exchange of the house for $11,500. The issue basically depended on whether the payment to Davidson was the same as a payment to the Lauer couple, and the court ruled that it was.

Judge Schmieghe commented in April, in part, "This is an unfortunate case, but this court must determine it in accordance with the rules of law." Davidson to sell their property. They had at that time an opportunity to determine for themselves the honesty and integrity of their broker.

Speeder Worried About Fast-Cooling Pizza Pays $15

James W. Van Bortel, 20, of 1012 N. Wilson street, Little Chute, was arrested for driving 40 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone about 10:15 p.m. Friday. He told the policeman that he had to hurry home—there were two hot pizzas in the car and it was cold.

Today the explanation did not help in municipal court.

17-Year Veteran

Royal Hume, Sealer, Submits Resignation

Royal C. Hume, inspector of weights and measures for 17 years, resigned late Monday, effective April 1.

Hume, who will be 66 before he retires, plans to "look things over" with his wife after April. "We'll get in a little fishing and some sightseeing," he said. He also plans to visit Florida and the far west — "just to see the country, you might say," he said. Hume told Mayor Mitchell he submitted his resignation early in the year because the state requires an examination for the sealer. "That sort of thing takes time," he said.

Enjoyed His Work

"I have enjoyed working for the city the last 17 years and especially the contacts with the city officials," he concluded in his letter to the mayor.

Hume was the city's third inspector of weights and measures since the post was created in 1913. He regularly checks all measuring devices in the city.

Six Motorists Pay Fines for Topsy Driving

Two Men Convicted Second Time for Similar Offense

Six motorists have paid fines amounting to $725 in various courts for drunken driving.

They are:

LaVerne A. Haase, 25, star route, Weyauwega, $150; George C. Froemming, 51, route 1, Bear Creek, $100; Frank Frederickson, 55, of 3005 Shorewood drive, Oshkosh, $100; Joseph A. Winkelbauer, 48, of 1726 Iowa street, Oshkosh, $150; Garry R. Muth, 28, of 747 Cleveland street, Neenah, $125; and Edwin H. Christian, 52, route 1, Larsen, $100.

Each lost his driver's license for one year.

Haase was arrested Sunday in the town of Fremont. It was his second conviction for drunken driving. He tested .18 on the breathalyzer. He pleaded guilty at his arraignment before Waupaca Justice George Whalen.

Arrested in Manawa

Froemming was arrested Dec. 27 by Manawa city police who noticed his erratic driving. He tested .20 on the breathalyzer. He, too, appeared before Justice Whalen.

Fredrickson was arrested Dec. 22 by Oshkosh police after a minor traffic accident. He pleaded innocent at his arraignment the next day but changed his plea to no contest before Oshkosh Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger Monday.

Winkelbauer was arrested about 8 p.m. Saturday after his car skidded 53 feet on Highway 76 across Highway 10, went 35 feet in the air, rolled end over end twice, rolled over twice and came to a stop 200 feet from the intersection. Winkelbauer and his passenger received minor injuries. Winkelbauer tested .23 on the drunkometer. He appeared in Appleton municipal court.

Second Conviction

Muth was fined $125 for his second conviction on drunken driving. He previously was convicted in 1955. He was arrested shortly before 8:30 p.m. Friday after State Patrolman Duane Jorgensen and Hortonville Police Chief Ira Dominowski saw him driving erratically on Highway 45.

Muth's car left Highway 45, crossing over to the wrong side of the road, where it hit a railroad sign. Muth tested .23 on the drunkometer and appeared in Appleton Municipal court today.

Christian was arrested about 10:45 p.m. Saturday after he drove on the wrong side of Highway 10 in the town of Greenville with his bright lights on. He drove his car in this manner into the path of County Patrolman Irvin Partika. Christian refused the drunkometer test.

Priebe Says Merit Raises Inopportune

Ald. Kenneth Priebe Monday lined himself up with those aldermen who oppose blanket merit increases in city employees' pay.

"Raising the pay for all supervisors in the street and engineering departments is not on a merit basis," Priebe said at a street and sanitation committee meeting. He added he did not like the fact "that we adopt the pay plan one month and come in with merit raises the next."

Offering merit raises at this time "will blow the pay plan wide open because we are changing so many of the salaries," he said.

Sincerity Questioned

Ald. Homer Malmstrom said that for except the blanket increases proposed by Director of Public Works Duszynski for men under his general supervision, the merit proposals seemed fair. Malmstrom admitted it is difficult to check on the sincerity of merit proposals.

Ald. Roy Pointer said he did not think the original pay schedule was "a good job." He compared city wages to industrial wages. "Until you compete with industry, you're going to get a class of worker that's substandard," he said. "You can't compete for the better workers."

High Court Affirms Record Accident Claim

Fatal Car Crash on April 29, 1957, Near Chilton Figures in Law Suit

Madison—The largest single accident claim in Calumet county history was affirmed by the Wisconsin Supreme court today when it agreed with a jury in Circuit Judge Helmut F. Arps' court in the attribution of negligence in the fatal car crash April 29, 1957, near Chilton.

Frederick Propson, 20 at the time of the accident, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Propson, route 1, Chilton, was awarded $39,065 damages. He was injured in the accident that took the life of Carmen Vollmer, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Vollmer, Hilbert.

The $32,414 granted in the suit was the largest total damages ever granted in the county.

Cars Collide

The collision was between cars driven by Eugene Nett, 18 at the time of the accident, route 2, Brillion, and Jerraine Criter, then 21, route 3, Chilton. Criter was alone in his car. Passengers of Nett were Miss Vollmer Propson, and Elizabeth Jensen, then 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jensen, Hilbert. All were injured, as were the two drivers.

Not directly involved in the collision but attributed part of the responsibility was Eugene Broeckel, route 3, Chilton. Broeckel's car was leading Criter. Broeckel was varying his speed to annoy Criter. When they approached a hill on Highway 57 about two miles north of Chilton, Criter attempted to pass and collided with Nett coming over the hill.

The jury attributed 48 per cent negligence to Criter, 42 per cent to Broeckel and 10 per cent to Nett. Nett appealed the decision. The verdict was reached Dec. 19, 1958.

Machine Firm Offers Building For City Lease

A 40,000-square-foot quonset hut on the west side of Oneida street just north of the railroad tracks has been offered for lease to the city by the Appleton Machine company, 618 S. Oneida street.

It was thought the building might be used as a parking or storage area for city vehicles and equipment. The proposal will be discussed at a meeting of the board of public works today.

The building until June 1 housed Appleton Machine's foundry operation. This phase of the company's activity was discontinued when the firm began buying its castings from outside sources.

Bavarian Youth's Love of Horses Led Him to U. S., Clintonville

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Clintonville — Take the bouncy elements of fate and chance and mix them with a small boy and a Bavarian pony — and by a long, long series of events laid one with another — you somehow get George Popp, 88, sitting in his little home in this community.

A yarn-spinner of the old school is Popp, whose memory is agile and tenacious. He remembers that his father gave him a small pony long ago when he was a 9-year-old farm boy living in the mountainous region near Stambach, Bavaria.

"From that day on," says Popp, "I loved horses. Then, one day in school we were studying the United States and our book told us that in the western part of that new country, there were great herds of wild horses."

That settled it for young George Popp. He made up his mind to two things: He would come to the United States and he would get a horse from the western plains. In due time he did, too.

Comes to Chicago

In 1885 when he was a skinny, hopeful, 14-year old, Popp migrated to the U. S. and settled in Chicago. His first big ambition was to get a job so he could earn enough money to buy a rope. What for? To go out west and lasso his bronco.

But George remained in Chicago for 10 years, long enough to buy a team of horses and a hunting dog. He took one brief trip to Wisconsin on a deer hunting expedition with two other men. Near Lena, the three-some bagged no fewer than 47 deer in three days. These were shipped to Chicago and sold to restaurateurs for whatever they'd pay — usually between $5 and $10 each.

In Chicago, young Popp became friendly with one Fred Wetzel, an operative for the famed Pinkerton detective agency. Wetzel drew an assignment to trail down a Bonduel, Wis., horse thief who had stolen a valuable team in Arlington Heights, Ill., and had fled somewhere in Wisconsin. Popp decided to go along. He had purchased a buggy and a team of horses and was Wetzel's means of transportation.

Trip to Wisconsin

"Wetzel was a likeable cuss," Popp said, "and he made friends very quick. And, since we traveled through many Bavarian settlements, I was popular, too because I could speak the language.

"Our trip to Wisconsin was leisurely. It took maybe three weeks to cover something like 150 miles. But we didn't have much money between us. Maybe $15."

But every community the young upstarts came to seemed to welcome them with open arms.

Somewhere along the route they met and added to their party a young fellow skilled in sleight-of-hand tricks. He was wonderful company, Popp remembers, and he added to their popularity.

Saloon Stops

"We'd stop at a saloon and make friends and by golly, we never even had to buy a drink. Most of the time somebody would invite us to stay overnight at their home, but sometimes we'd sleep in a barn or out in the woods or fields," he said.

"Sometimes we'd run out of money, but we always managed to get enough food for us and the horses."

When Popp was pressed for details on the means of getting food, he grinned like a little boy.

"Well, we swiped it," he said.

Trio on Move

Through the little villages the threesome went, making friends quickly and rollicking their leisurely way across the state.

At Slinger, one of Popp's horses lost a shoe. It was Sunday and the travelers wanted to keep moving.

"We found out that the blacksmith was in church and we went in there and talked him into coming out right away to shoe the horse. While the blacksmith was shoeing the horse, we went into a saloon. One result was that we didn't get out of Slinger for a couple of days. That's the kind of hurry we were in."

Somewhere in Fond du Lac a local police officer attempted to arrest the threesome "for having the team tied up to one post too long," but Wetzel flashed his badge and told the rustic that he was a "government man" and that the horses could stay there as long as it pleased him to let them. The bold statement kept the threesome from getting an extremely early parking ticket.

One Drops Off

At Fond du Lac, the sleight-of-hand expert decided to quit the gay party. It was too crowded in the little buggy "Maybe," mused Popp, "he's still there."

At Chilton, Popp's dog was stolen but they tracked down the thief and had him put in jail. They also picked up the trail of the horse thief whom Wetzel was pursuing, albeit it in leisurely fashion. The thief had sold one of the horses to a man from Pulaski.

Wetzel and Popp got jobs in a lumber camp near Butter-nut and worked side by side with the horse-thief they pursued. Here, at last, Popp and Wetzel parted company. Wetzel traced down the pair of horses the Bonduel man had stolen, then took horses and thief back to Arlington Heights. It was the last of the comradely journey for the pair.

Popp Marries

Popp found a girl and married her, then accepted a job on her father's farm for $5 per month. Later moves took him to Appleton where he worked in a brewery from 1900 to 1908. He lived in Greenville, in Seymour, in Deer Creek and on a 40-acre tract of Indian land near where he lived with his present wife, his second, in a log cabin.

In 1917 he moved to Clintonville. Over the years he had many horses, including a wild bronco he bought for $5. How many horses did he have? "Oh, I don't remember — hundreds and hundreds of them, though," he said, grinning. Some of their names: Jim, Duke, Billy, Daisy, Diamond, Pat, Molly, Polly, and Major.

In his present house to which he moved in 1926, the 88-year-old yarn-spinner has plenty of thinking to remember his horses, all beloved, and the little pony which, so many years ago, started a chain of events which had him retired in Clintonville instead of in a little village in the mountains of Bavaria.

Furniture Keyed to 1960 Living in Design, Color

Furniture to match the American mood—for satisfying design, color and the utmost in home convenience—has been unveiled at the International Home Furnishings market this week at Chicago's famed Merchandise Mart.

Because of the vast variety of interesting furniture, big news is breaking in other furnishings. Among the feats accomplished are wall-to-wall stereophonic sound sets at minimum prices; revolutionary designs in ranges and refrigerators; at least three new man-made fibers are making their debut in carpets, upholstery and window fabrics, and there are brilliant new colors and designs in draperies and carpets.

Color sparks many new furniture groups. It may be a pattern in brilliant contrasts, like enamel-on-copper door panels of modern mahogany cases, where combinations of purples, blues, pinks, greens and oranges are used. A choice of color is offered on all pieces in a line—as saffron, lotus or bright shades in a rattan group—or porcelain blue and antique white in a traditional line.

Often color is intended for accent pieces like a pretty curved bench of laminated ash in sapphire or berry blue, red, tusk white or yellow. Charming little pedestal cabinets in a Williamsburg colonial group are done in rubbed-in colors or terra cotta and grey, blue and white, or ebony with gold. Elegant screens in this line come in the same colors and Castilian red and tortoise shell are other choices for uniquely shaped jewel boxes.

The design story is one of continued style mixing—contemporary blended with traditional motifs or traditional adapted to modern use. Even modern designers have added notes of the old to their creations.

Authentic Styles

Also shown are pure contemporary and near-authentic reproductions of French, Neo-classic and English period themes through Early American designs.

Furniture has become somewhat more formal with more shaping and embellishment—carried out in color, contrasting woods or other materials. More functional pieces are included in each line—storage units in traditional and contemporary styles are cleverly designed as flexible space savers.

Unique Headboard

A unique free-standing headboard can make a room divider or lounge from a bed or as a wall arrangement. Made of walnut panels, it is available in any width or in L-shapes.

Design tricks used for practical purposes are many and include the long walnut coffee table with brass rods fitted into one end on which to hang magazines. Square chairs can be used at dining tables or combined to make settees, small benches or corner arrangements.

Chairs are important both for dining or lounging and often have ottomans to match. A molded walnut chair on a revolving base is matched by an ottoman. An unusual foldaway chair features a molded back and seat of laminated walnut and folds to a compact six inches. A slim-line sofa has a white plastic shelf attached to the back and another is cantilevered to allow a V-opening where tuxedo-like arms would join the back.

Long Sofa

A very long sofa has a full 6-foot foam rubber mattress as the seat cushion. Panels, trapunto work, tailored frogs and screen-printed designs are examples of added detail on upholstered furniture and the wood frames are sometimes color-keyed to the fabric.

Luscious fabrics are making their bow in several collections of furniture and are seen in creamy white, sand, apricot, blue and green tweed as well as purple, lavender, magenta or other hues. Damasks, silks and satins, jacquards and textures are favored over prints.

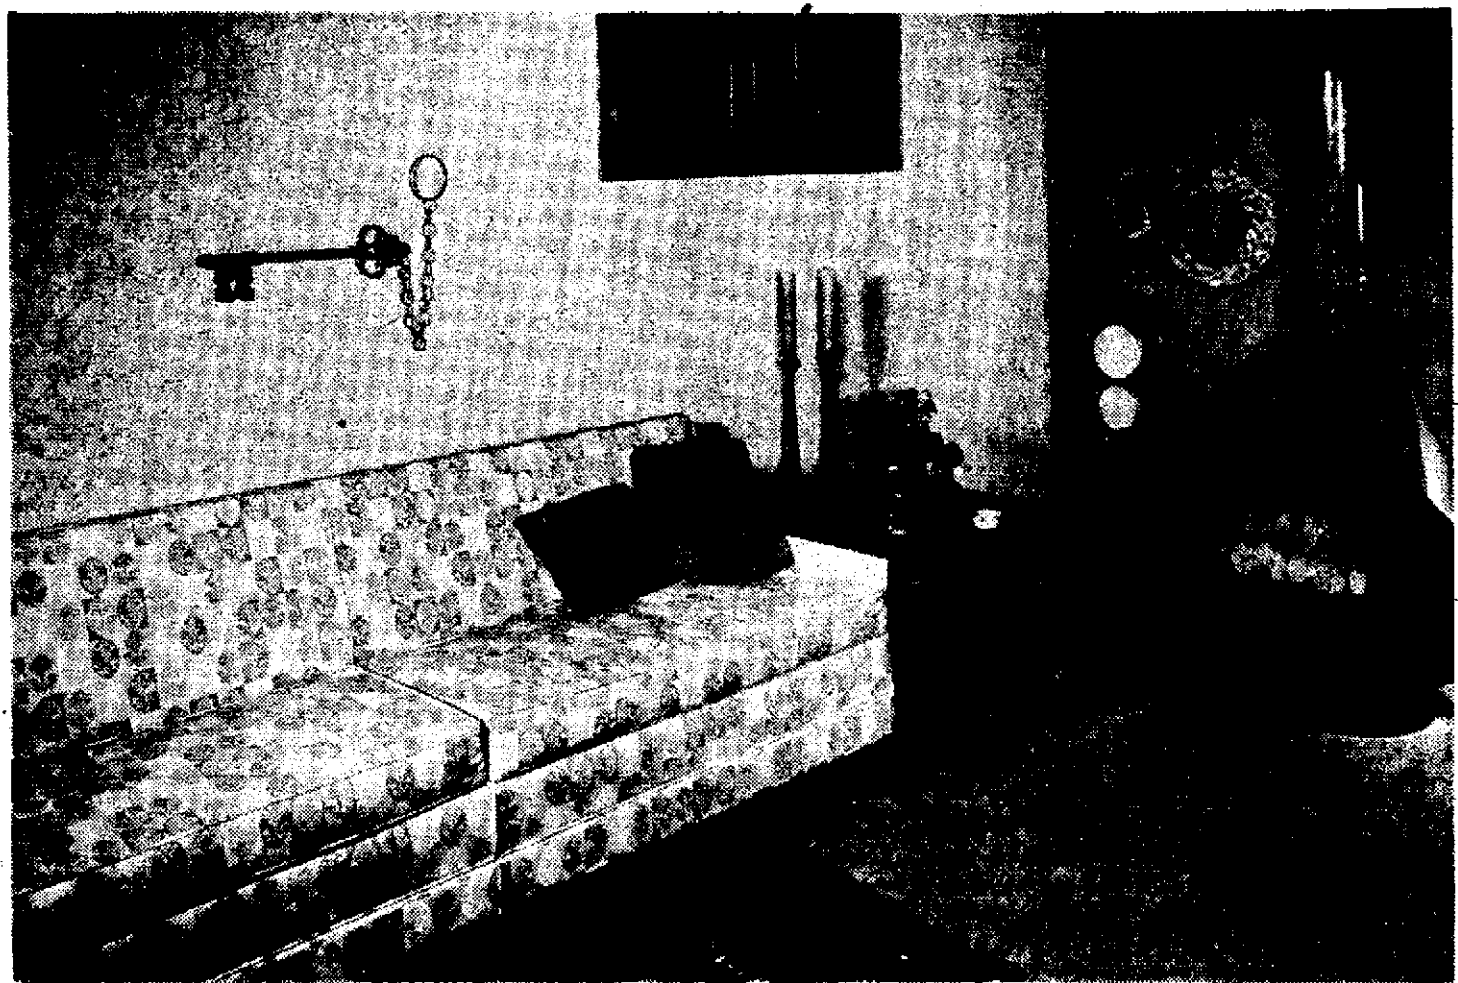

The same striking colors as in furniture fabrics are also seen in floor coverings—particularly purple, lavender and hyacinth and tints of green, gold, beige and grey. Silver and gold sparkle in a new vinyl tile and a new development in continuous filament nylon yarn is making its debut in carpets from three leading manufacturers.

Vibrant color appears in both woven and printed drapery and curtain fabrics with the same counter trend toward desert tones. Some domestic fibres that look like French damask or Italian silk are among the new window materials.

Walls Gain Real Wood Appearance

Wallcoverings which actually look and feel like wood, in a variety of colors and grains, are seen at the Home Furnishings' show now in progress at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago. The fine hardwood veneers mounted on paper offer a new third dimension in the world of walls and offer the home the richness of wood paneling and the ease of wallpapering in an ingenious combination of both.

Thin sheets of actual birch, African walnut and cherry are bonded permanently to paper for simple application to walls, shelves and table tops. The elegant appearance of true wood belies the ease and economy

The Family Room, den or living room assumes an aura of luxurious comfort with the addition of furniture upholstered in new medium-weight vinyl backed with fabric. Its durability and non-cracking, non-slipping properties make it ideal for either family use or as guest room furniture. A giant key and chain decorate the wall of this cozy room, while large logs are waiting to be touched into a warming fire.

of its do-it-yourself benefits. The panel arrangements feature the grain of the wood running the width of the paper and is available in rolls for standard wall-papering procedure with the use of ordinary paste. The new covering also is cut in squares for custom parquet planning, and the matching or contrasting squares offer a multitude of arrangements to create striking checkerboard designs.

The 11 wood tones range from a virile dark African walnut keyed to masculine approval, to a soft silver tone perfect for bedroom or powder room or as an elegant background for graceful antiques. For the fireplace wall or formal dining room, the baronial touch is evident in the dark African walnut variety and lighter-toned birch veneers offer complementary colors to existing room themes.

Random Print Designs are used for truly exclusive draperies—custom-planned to locate the prints on each panel so they achieve the most striking effect. The tall tree lends its improving appearance to the panels where height is desired while the smaller designs blend with the furniture arrangement.

Basic Units Designed to fit together compactly make this studio apartment into an imaginatively decorated home. Ready for guests, the headboard bed and storage chest at its foot are used as seating pieces. The hanging wall units include an ambiguous drop leaf table—which doubles as a desk—and cabinets. A long, low bench also serves as an attractive table for snacks and meals.

Fine Hardwood Veneers illustrate their functional and beautifying role in the home appearing in furniture surfaces and even the elm wall panelling. The modern couch-table is a new trend toward dual-purpose pieces and is designed in brown-tone walnut. Solid wood is used in table and chair legs and the fine hardwoods in the furniture are teak and walnut.

Architectural Glass Solves the home decorating problem of too short wall dividers and permits more flexibility of furniture arrangement. The glass is available in a variety of designs and colors and custom cut to size and line harmonizing with room furnishings. Here the panel is framed with walnut to match the piano, achieving a well-planned effect.

Daughter Lies to Parents—Violates Movie Privileges

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN: Our 14-year-old daughter lied to us. She said she and her girl friend were going to the school's downtown art and science exhibit. Instead they went to an "adults only" movie. A neighbor told me she saw Linda in the Ann Landers theater, painted up like a husky and wearing hanging earrings in an attempt to look older. I was humiliated.

When I confronted Linda with the information she didn't deny it. I want to take away her weekly allowance of $2.50 for one month. Her father does not go along with this. Your advice?—P. D. Q.

Dear P. D. Q.: I agree with your husband. An allowance should not be withheld as punishment and used as a club to keep the child in line.

A more meaningful and equitable punishment would be to take away Linda's movie privileges for a month.

DEAR ANN: I won't tell you whether I'm a Republican or a Democrat. I'll just say I'm an American who is fed up on both parties. In my opinion neither one has a first-rate candidate for the presidency. I've examined all the possible candidates and have just about decided to sit the next one out. In my opinion this is an effective way to voice my disapproval. My wife says I'm nutty and to write to you and you'll tell me why. I never expect to see this letter in print because I'm sure you can't answer it intelligently.—Passing in '60

Dear Passing: A voter who "sits out" doesn't voice anything. He merely abdicates his responsibility.

Be realistic. Somebody is going to be elected. Although you don't like any of the prospective candidates you cannot dislike each of them equally. Vote for the one you dislike the least and don't be a sore-head.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for an Ann Landers booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

In Good Taste This Visit May Cause Criticism

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening I went to visit a friend who was recently married. She was not at home but her husband was. He said that his wife had gone to a shower and asked me if I would like to come in for a while. I stayed about a half hour chatting with him, and then left. My mother was shocked to hear that I had stayed alone with my friend's husband and thinks that I should have left when I learned she was not at home and said that I would come back another time. I can't for the life of me see what was so terrible about this, but according to my mother I not only placed myself in a very bad light but my friend's husband as well. Will you please tell me if there was any impropriety in this situation?

Answer: While there was nothing really wrong in what you did, it would have been wiser had you left and said that you would come another time not only to have avoided possible criticism but because your friend just might have minded your being alone with her husband.

An Engagement
Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine told me that you said it was not proper to send out engraved announcements. We're not having a party to announce the engagement and I had intended to send engraved announcements to our many friends and relatives—many of them living out of town. This information puts a crimp in our plans. Is this true, or has my friend misinterpreted your advice?

Answer: It is true. Correctly, the engagement is announced in the newspapers, and by letters to intimate friends who quickly spread the news.

Proper Reply
Dear Mrs. Post: When going to a funeral home to pay one's respects to the family of the deceased, and you are thanked for coming, what is the proper reply to make?

Answer: Generally, with a warm handclasp you say, "My deepest sympathy" or "I can't tell you how sorry I am."

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-4, entitled, "Wedding Expenses," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E.P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Vinyl Opens New Areas

A new, medium weight print vinyl for upholstery is being introduced at the Home Furnishings Market at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago this week.

The 27-ounce elastic backed vinyl has opened new areas in decorating and has gained an important position in the upholstery furniture field. The manufacturers have employed a silk screen printing process which insures lasting clarity of design, while the vinyl itself includes sturdiness to defy wear and washability to minimize care.

For the smaller areas of furniture, the designers have used a bolder note in color and offer two to four standard colorways in each pattern.

The medium weight vinyl also is ideal for re-upholstering as well as being an excellent choice for coverings on new furniture facing double duty wear. It is perfect for family room and den furniture and for children's rooms.

HIS AND HERS —

BY MURIEL STAFFORD, GRAPHOLOGIST

SHE I am flattered by Interesting but Incomprehensible

"... Our backgrounds are similar but our temperaments are different enough so that I find her company interesting but not always comprehensible."

You may be attracted by her looks, her pretty clothes, and her pleasant personality without realizing that these are her main interest in life.

She writes slowly with ultra-careful letter formations (note "r"). There is very little difference between her writing now and the way she was taught to write as a small child. Actually she thinks as a child in many ways.

Your tiny, quick-lettered writing reveals a fertile, well-developed mind. You have many ideas and you like to express your thoughts in words.

She isn't always thinking with you just because she seems to agree. In fact, she may not even be listening, no matter how intently she looks at you.

She wants everything in a set, secure pattern and therefore may believe that she has all the answers. Her "answers" may seem stereotyped and unimaginative to you.

She would be a good housewife, but might be a disappointing marriage companion for you. She must find you at least as "incomprehensible" as you find her.

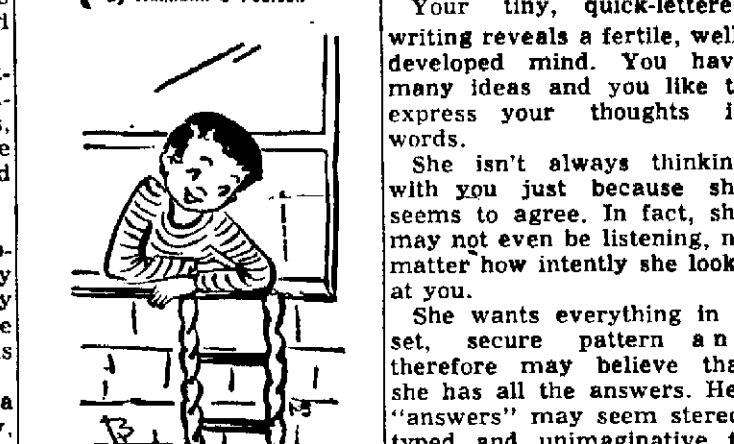

You say that you find her company "interesting." Let her do all the talking some evening. Check the subjects she chooses and her opinions regarding them. You may find her less "interesting" but even more "incomprehensible."

New Glass Adds Walls, Dimension

Architectural glass accomplishes the modern miracle of creating more wall space without remodeling and without sacrificing valuable floor space. A new laminated glass introduced at the Home Furnishings market this week gives a new dimension to decorating by contributing beauty to the room while serving the utilitarian role as a shatterproof "wall."

Actually a "sandwich" of two sheets of safety glass with a choice of colors, geometric designs or actual inserts of fabric or paper, the new glass is the ideal solution to the problem of limited wall space.

It adds space for placing furniture pieces or creates a stunning foyer effect at the doorway. The glass can be used to extend a too-short wall or to build a new room divider. It is available in either transparent, translucent or opaque varieties and permits the passage of light to add colorful charm to lamp and lighting arrangements.

Strong and safe for structural use, the glass is ideal for even that smallest of rooms, the bathroom, utilizing only about one-half inch of floor space in width.

The glass can be custom planned according to size, color, design or inserts, although a complete line of standard designs with handsome geometric figures is available without special ordering. The patterns feature winding golden threads, fragile pearl chips, tropical bamboo or cane, delicate butterflies or ferns and bright leaves.

To plan separate identity for a room area partitioned off by glass, there are matching and harmonizing colors and designs.

A Lovelier You

Stocking Wear

The life of those recently acquired gift nylons or of future purchases can be greatly lengthened by following these tips:

Before wearing new nylon stockings, launder them. Nylons are treated with a protective finish. When it is washed out, stockings fit and wear better.

To prevent snags and runs, put on a stocking this way: Roll it down to the toe and slip in the foot. Fit heel directly into the heel pocket and smooth fullness forward. Then draw stocking up the leg, taking care to keep a seam straight. When fastening garters, flex the knee; fasten the back garter first, the front one last—all at the top of the welt and perpendicular to it.

At this point, the length of your garters, girdle and stockings becomes crucial to the saving program. They must work as a team, or damage will ensue. Perfect team-mates are a girdle that covers the heaviest part of the thigh; leg-sized stockings, proportioned to both girth and length; garters adjusted to hold stockings firmly, neither too taut nor too slack.

Other threats to nylons come in the guise of fingernails and toenails, or finger rings and shoe linings. Rough or jagged, they spell finish. So beware!

"If you behave yourself and eat up all your spinach," my mother used to tell me, "all your finesses will work."

Opening lead — C 3
West opened the three of clubs, and South finessed dummy's 10. This worked, for East won with the ace. The rest of the finesses were off-side.
East returned a heart, and South played low as a finesse. West won with the queen of hearts and led a club to dummy's king. Declarer drew two rounds of trumps and then went after every finesse in sight.
His first step was to lead a diamond to the king and return a diamond for a finesse of the jack. West won with the queen of diamonds and got out safely with a diamond. Now South had to fall back on the heart finesse, and he was down one when this lost.
Game Unbeatable
It was a bad day for finessing, but the game contract was actually unbeatable. There were too many finesses for one player to take; South should have allowed somebody else to take one for him.
Declarer was on the right track when he ducked the first round of hearts and later drew two rounds of trumps. But then he should leave the hearts and diamonds alone.
The correct play is to lead the jack of clubs from the South hand. West must play the queen, since the first trick locates that card in his hand. Declarer does not ruff this card in dummy; instead, he discards a small diamond from dummy.
Now South needs the rest of the tricks, and he will surely get them. If West returns a heart or a diamond, he gives declarer a free finesse, and if West returns a club, dummy discards a heart while South ruffs.
It pays to give a trick to an opponent if he must promptly give you two tricks in exchange. Fortunes have been built on this principle.

Our Children

Mother Has Problem
With Rough Youngster

BY ANGELO PATRI
A young mother writes to say that her little boy of 3 cannot seem to understand that he hurts the other children when he runs to them, runs into them because he is going so fast and hard, hugs them until they scream or butts them with his head.
Usually when a small one behaves this way he is the only child in the household and so unused to being with others. In his joy and excitement at finding company he loses control of himself and while wanting to show how much he likes them knocks his friends down, hurts them one way or another.
This angers the mothers of the injured children. They take their children away, tell them not to play with that bad boy, scold him and tell his mother that it is about time she did something with that young hoodlum.
Needs Teaching
While we know why the child is so rough we know also how he scares and hurts the others. They must be protected from his attacks of misguided affection. The best thing for his mother to do is to take him for his airing to some place where there are no children. This until she can manage to get him to understand that it is his mistaken behavior that costs him playmates.
When he behaves roughly his mother should take him into the house at once, tell him why and make him stay in long enough to let him feel the isolation. Instead of turning him out alone the next time she should go with him and watch him and if he starts roughing up the children he is to be taken into the house or to some place where there are no other children.
The child must be conditioned so that he understands that his behavior won't do and that it costs him pleasure. This is his mother's hard task. She must go with him when he goes out to play, watch him, correct him and the minute he shows roughness, take him away.
He is not to be shaken and slapped. Roughness teaches roughness. He is to be shown that roughness costs him fun, friends, playtime. And he is not to be turned out alone until he understands this.
Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet P-25, "Standards of Development," send 10 cents in coin to him, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Line Cake Pans
With Waxed Paper

If you want to make absolutely sure that your butter cakes will come out of their pans easily, line the bottom of the pans with waxed paper—and grease the paper—before pouring in the batter. Use sweet butter or salad (not olive) oil for greasing the paper; salt butter has a tendency to make batter stick.

Lunch Tip

Make an extra sandwich when you are packing a lunchbox for Dad or one of your youngsters. Wrap the sandwich in waxed paper and refrigerate it. At noon, when you are ready for lunch, spread the top surface of the sandwich bread with soft butter or margarine and toast under the broiler; turn, spread other side of sandwich with soft butter and toast. Almost any filling—cheese, egg or tuna salad—takes to this sandwich treatment.

Leadership

Issues Statement to Assure Staff of No
Impending Changes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A Door county farmer Monday took over the chairmanship of the big state highway department with a pledge to maintain the "high standard" of performance of an agency distinguished throughout the country for its administrative leadership.
Harvey Grasse of Ellison Bay, named chairman of the commission by Gov. Nelson to succeed Harold L. Plummer, made the statement in a memorandum to staff officers undertaken as his first official job.
The commission Monday named G. H. Bakke of Menomonie, former secretary, to the commission vice chairmanship, and elected V. L. Fiedler of Madison, newest commission appointee, as its secretary.
The reorganization followed the recent retirement under the state pension act of Chairman Plummer.

No Shakeups

Grasse's statement was evidently phrased to assure the department's huge staff that it need not fear any extensive shakeups as a result of the change of top command.

The new Democratic chief official of the department, praised the record of the agency under its Republican leaders in the past, and said it stands as a symbol of integrity, fair dealing and efficient service.

The department is known as one of the most successful agencies of its kind in the country, he added.

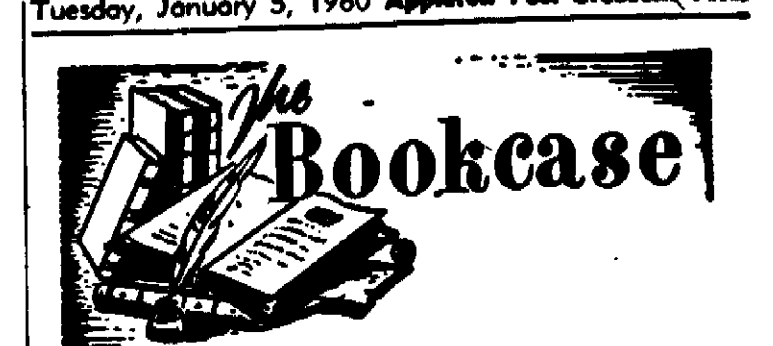

Grasse said he intended to consult with Gov. Nelson about an elaboration of his statement to a staff conference in Milwaukee in connection with the annual mid-winter road school Jan. 26.

New Biography of Lindbergh
Develops Rise, Fall of Hero

BY W. G. ROGERS
AP Arts Editor

("The Hero: Charles A. Lindbergh and the American Dream," by Kenneth S. Davis. Published by Doubleday.)
It was still the days when newspapers published extras, and still the time of the crystal radio sets — and by one means or the other, millions of ecstatically thankful Americans learned that "Lucky" Lindbergh landed the Spirit of St. Louis at Le Bourget airport outside Paris late Saturday evening, May 21, 1927.
Some men had already flown the Atlantic; others died trying to; other planes were being readied at the very moment Lindbergh took off; but he was the first to fly non-stop New York to Paris and he did it alone—it was "We," he said, including the plane itself—and won the $25,000 Orteig prize.

He won also a fabulous, an incredible, an unimaginable reputation as a flier. In this century the American people have idolized, apotheosized, adulated and saluted to any single figure, it was Lindy.
Full Story Told
Here for the first time, by the experienced biographer of the much less baffling personalities of both Eisenhower and Stevenson, his story is told in full. He was born in Detroit, Feb. 4, 1902, and brought up in Little Falls, Minn., where his father was congressman.
Dour was the word for the whole family. Graduated from high school in 1918, tall and lanky, he entered the University of Wisconsin; his interests were his motorcycle, and any and all machinery, and he experienced, says Davis, "a growing compulsion toward danger."

He learned the hard way to fly, joined the air force, barnstormed and stunted, parachuted several times to save his life, flew the mail, and became a phenomenally skilled airman. He had a prodigious appetite; he was an insufferable practical joker; he had nothing to do with girls. He was, that is, 100 per cent pure flier.
No Radical
Within a week after his achievement, offers totaling over $5 million dollars had been made to him, and were all rejected.
He came home in a battleship, was a guest of President Coolidge, met Dwight Morrow and Anne whom he would marry.

He served valiantly after Pearl Harbor, both on the home front and in enemy skies.
Davis sees here some "latent anti-intellectualism," and a dangerous drive to power, a man in effect touched by the amorality of the machinery he mastered. The admirably detailed documentation may not spare this book from the ill temper of dissenters, but it should. This is an unflinching scrutiny of the intricate composition of a hero, how he's made and unmade, and who's to praise and who's to blame.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 8
It's certainly a red-letter day when your "do-it-yourself" cherub learns to sit up by himself. But remember, those little back muscles are weak at first, so try not to leave baby sitting up or propped up too long. Here are the fatigue signals: Slumping forward or sliding from buttocks to small of back.
Sit-aloners, lap-sitters, creepers or walk-alongs, all need plenty of protein for strength and muscle development. Gerber Strained and Junior Meats provide that protein in the smoothest form possible. Only selected, inspected Armour cuts are used in these quality meats. Special processing removes most of the fat for easy digestibility and preserves the natural juiciness.
In precious food values, 100% pure meat, with just enough broth left in for a smooth, moist texture. 8 strained and 8 junior varieties.
From less starchy. Stains from protein foods, such as meat, eggs or milk, come out more easily if you soak toys in cold water before sudsing in hot water. Hot water will set the stains, making removal more difficult.
Words on weaning. Pretending to drink from an empty cup helps baby in perfecting the hand-to-mouth coordination he will need for real liquid self-feeding, with a minimum of spillage. Show him how to do it with your own cup and he'll soon learn by imitation.
Now — easy-to-use, easy-to-read jars. The new Gerber Wide-Top jars make spooning easier... speed up feeding time. What's more, you can reach the food way down at the bottom with no trouble at all. The new, bright blue labels make it easier for you to get the variety you want when you shop, because the variety name is right at the top. You'll find many of baby's favorite Gerber Strained Foods in the new jars, with more to come soon. Gerber Baby Foods, Prospect, Mich.

Kimberly Outlasts Stubborn Chuters

Jansen Hits 35 Points in 81-71 Win

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Kimberly—A furious fourth-quarter rally that netted 13 straight points enabled the Kimberly Papermakers to pull out a hard-earned 81-71 victory over St. John of Little Chute here Monday night.

Jansen Bongers

managed to stay with the Papermakers. Through the third period, the Chuters managed to hold a lead that varied between one and three points.

Jansen Shows Way
The win, Kimberly's sixth straight, gives the Papermakers a 7-1 mark for the season. St. John, which has dropped five games by 10 points or less, has a 4-6 campaign mark.

Darrell Jansen's consistent scoring around the basket kept the Papermakers in the game. The tall forward dumped in 16 field goals and three charity tosses for 35 points, high for both teams.

St. John's scoring was well belated by Mike Bongers getting 20, Harland Hietpas, 17; Ed Hammen, 13; and Andy Ebben, 12.

Near the end of the third period, the Papermakers pulled even with the Chuters and Jansen sent Kimberly into the lead at 56-54 with 1:14 left. Kone bagged one for the Chuters with :28 showing to tie it at the end of the frame.

Don Hearden opened the final period with a bucket on a jump shot and Bongers counted a pair of free throws to tie the count for the sixth time.

Rooyackers Hooks
Then came the Papermaker scoring spree. Tom Rooyackers opened it with a hook, Jansen followed with a short one, was fouled and converted on the free throw try to make it 63-58.

Jansen came through on a fast break after Dave Minten stole the ball, and Minten scored when he picked off a bad pass. Rooyackers tipped in a rebound and Hearden hit one from the outside to push the lead to 71-58.

With 4:17 left in the game, Kone connected for the Chuters first field goal of the quarter. Hearden put the lead back at 13 points with a pair of free throws.

St. John cut the margin with Hietpas scoring a 3-pointer on a bucket and free toss and Bongers came through with a pair of free throws. This made it 73-65, but the Chuters could not overcome the advantage.

After a slow start, Kimberly warmed up and took a 20-15 first quarter lead. St. John fought back and played a fine defensive game in the second period. The Dutchmen managed 19 markers while holding Kimberly to 13 to show the Chuters in front, 34-33, at the intermission.

Overflow Crowd
With the overflow crowd on its feet and roaring during the hectic third period the Papermakers scored 23 while St. John had 22 to knot the score going into the final eight minutes.

Despite a height advantage for the Papermakers, the Chuters did well in the rebound department with Kone and Hietpas leading the way. Bongers and Ebben did a good forward defensive job on Papermaker scoring star Hearden who was held to one field goal in the first half but came through with five in the final two periods. Hearden had 19 points.

BY ED CORRIGAN

New York—Who said there's not going to be a pro football war?

The rumbling reached the shooting stage today when the New York Giants and Los Angeles Rams of the National Football league threatened to take legal steps to keep their holds on two All-Americans—fullback Charlie Flowers of Mississippi and Halfback Billy Cannon of Louisiana State.

Buffalo Bills Sign Dove, 2 Former NFL Gridders

Buffalo, N.Y.—An assistant coach and two players, all formerly with National Football league clubs, have been signed by the Buffalo Bills of the new American Football league.

Bob Dove, who resigned last month as assistant coach of the Detroit Lions of the NFL, signed Monday as an assistant to Bills' Coach "Buster" Ramsey.

Maurice Bassett, a former Cleveland Browns fullback, and Joe Canavino, formerly a Baltimore Colts' defensive back, have signed contracts and brought the Bills' roster to 15.

In game a Viking who won the world heavyweight boxing championship from Floyd Patterson last June in a shocking upset, has been voted the "Athlete of the Year" for 1959 in the year-end Associated Press poll.

Johansson, a 27-year-old Swede won by a substantial margin over Johnny Unitas, who quarterbacked the Baltimore Colts to the National Football league championship for the second straight year.

Johansson had 120 votes of the 288 votes from sports writers and sportscasters. Unitas had 54.

It was the second time in the history of the poll, which dates back to 1931, that a boxer had won it. Joe Louis won in 1935. Last year's winner was Herb Elliott, the Australian rider who had broken the 4-minute barrier 10 times.

Polls 42 Votes
Billy Cannon, Louisiana State's All-America back, was the only other athlete to draw strong support. He polled 42 votes for third place, far ahead of the Chicago Cubs' Ernie Banks who drew 12 votes.

Charlie Connerly, the New York Giants' quarterback, and Nellie Fox, the American league's most valuable player as the Chicago White Sox' second baseman, each had nine Flowers announced Monday that he had signed with the Los Angeles Chargers of the American Football league.

Threatens Court Action
"We have a legal contract with Flowers and will take steps necessary to enforce that contract," thundered Jack Mara, president of the Giants.

Mara was the second NFL owner who threatened to take his case to the courts.

Only last week, the Rams complained that All-American Cannon ran out on a contract and threatened to go to court to enforce it.

Cannon admitted Monday night in Honolulu, where he is to appear in the Hula bowl, that he had signed a 3-year contract with the Houston Oilers of the AFL right after the Sugar bowl game New Year's day.

Changes Mind
He conceded that he had come to some sort of verbal agreement with the Rams but later changed his mind.

General Manager Pete Rozell of the Rams said the club has a written agreement with Cannon "and we intend to enforce it."

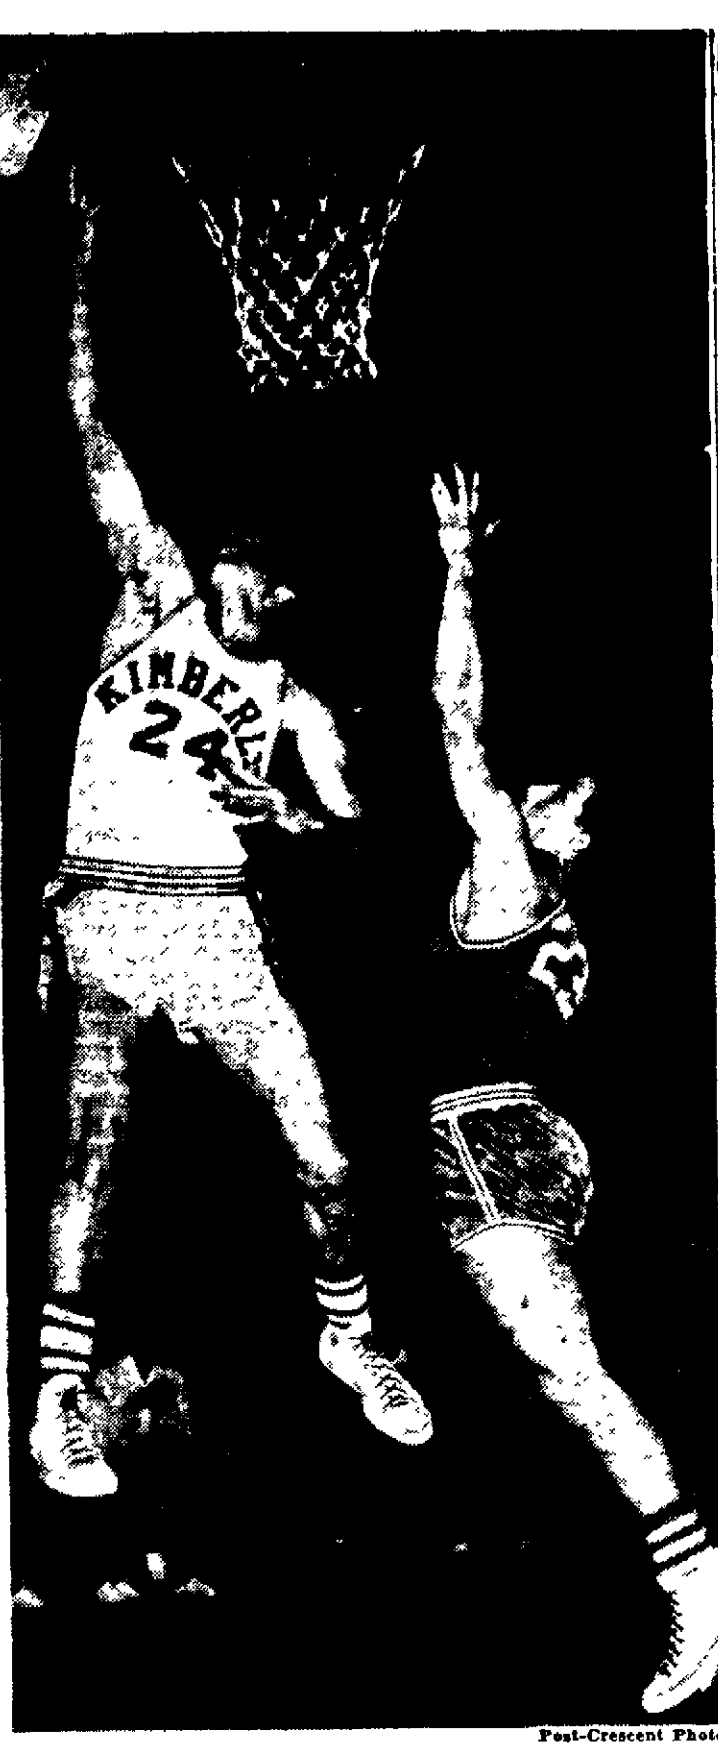

Just a month ago, bigwigs of both the NFL and AFL disclaimed any intention of getting involved in a costly salary war.

Horvath, Stasiuk Close in on NHL Scoring Lead
Montreal—Boston's Bronco Horvath and Vic Stasiuk are back in shape and challenging again for the scoring leadership in the National Hockey league.

Official statistics released today show the two Boston sharpshooters made the largest gains during the week. Horvath, who held the scoring lead most of the early season, picked up seven points to move to within two points of the front runner, Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Hull added five points and has 49 for the season. Stasiuk, meantime, went on a 9-point spurge and jumped from tenth to sixth with 42 points.

Atlantic City, N.J.—Jethro Cason, 139, Philadelphia, outpointed J. D. Ellis, 137, Trenton, N.J., 10.

Kimberly's Darrell Jansen drives in to score two of the 35 points he threw at Little Chute St. John Monday night. The Chuters' Eddie Hammen (23) is on defense. Jansen paced Kimberly to an 81-71 win.

The Big Ten's run-and-shoot brand of basketball might be facing a slow-down this season.

Northwestern given little chance against Indiana's pre-season favorites, slowed down its attack Monday night and topped the Hoosiers, 61-57, at Evanston.

The loss followed Indiana's 79-76 defeat to Purdue last week when the Bollermakers sprung a collapsing zone defense against the Hoosiers. Indiana's Branch McCracken, dean of Big Ten coaches, criticized the tactics of both Northwestern and Purdue.

"Northwestern played a fine game," said McCracken. But if too many teams start Turn to Page 15, Col. 2

Regulation play ended at a 58-58 tie.

Musser was high scorer with 21 points. Craig Miller, Bill Rilling and Tom Rath each had 12 for Beloit.

Gresham Tops Xavier With Big Fourth Quarter

Visitors Erase 44-38 Deficit, Post 65-52 Win

Unbeaten Gresham blew open a tight basketball game with a 27-8 scoring surge in the last quarter to defeat Appleton's Xavier Catholic High school, 65-52, here Monday night.

The Hawks had led at the end of each of the first three periods before falling prey to the bigger and more experienced visitors. It was the third straight loss for the freshman - sophomore Hawks to a 4-year school after opening with five straight wins against 4-year opponents.

Forward Paul Zeegers scored 19 points, and forward "Chuck" Lueck 17 for the losers. Big Center Ron Price hit 29 for Gresham and the left-hander was murder from inside. Little guard Gary Schabon contributed 18.

12-11 Lead
Xavier grabbed a 12-11 lead after one period with the hard-driving Lueck compiling five points. The losers were on top, 32-27, at the half as hook-shooting Zeegers scored 10 points in the stanza. Xavier built it to 44-38 at the end of three periods.

In the last quarter, Price wired 12 points and guard Dave Kuhn, an outside shooter, eight, as the visitors took over the boards and moved out of reach.

Xavier made 10 for 19 free throws, while Gresham connected on 15 for 29. Xavier's next start is against visiting Manitowoc Lutheran Monday.

Rote May Be Through At Detroit

Fails to Get No-Release Pact From Anderson

Detroit—Tobin Rote may have played his last football game with the Detroit Lions.

The veteran quarterback and Edwin J. Anderson, president and general manager of the Lions, had a new contract talk Monday but failed to reach agreement.

Anderson said Rote, who had one of his poorest seasons in 1959, insisted he be given a no-release type contract. He said he was just as insistent that no such contract be made.

"Unless Rote reconsiders," Anderson said, "he probably won't be playing with the Lions again. We do not intend to give him a no-release contract."

The type of contract Rote desires would guarantee him his $18,000 salary and would not allow him to be traded.

Anderson said he and Rote had not arranged to meet again.

Hawkeye '5' Chills Badger Comeback, Triumphs, 71 to 64

UW Leads, 54-46, With 12:00 Remaining; Gharrity Totals 17

Madison—Tom Hughbanks of Wisconsin was on the bench. Don Nelson of Iowa wasn't. And the result was a 71-64 Hawkeye basketball victory over the Badgers in a Big Ten game Monday night.

Coach Johnny Erickson's young and fallible Wisconsin squad opened the second half with a mighty burst of scoring energy, obviously intent on an upset. But such was not to be.

Marty Gharrity paced the Badgers to a 54-46 lead with 12 minutes left on the clock. They were still out in front, though only by one point at 56-55, with some 54 minutes left. Then the trouble began.

Hughbanks, the tallest and most efficient Badger rebounder, was sent to the bench with his fifth foul. He had led both teams with 12 rebounds.

Nelson, a 6-foot-7 center, scored two points as Hughbanks left the court. He followed with two more free throws and the revitalized Hawkeyes zoomed ahead with seven more points to make the score read 69-58, a lead the Badgers found insurmountable.

Nelson finished the game with a total of 22 points to lead the scoring for both teams. Fourteen of his points came on free throws.

Tied Five Times
The score was tied five times and the lead saw-sawed 12 times.

A foul situation contributed a great portion of difficulty to the Badger squad. Bob Barneson also left the game because of them. Teammates Fred Clow, Rick Murray and Gharrity had to step easily with four each. Gharrity led the scoring for Wisconsin with 17 points. Clow totaled 15 and Hughbanks 13.

Wisconsin matched Iowa in field goals—23 of each—but was a hair behind in shooting accuracy, 348 to 377. Iowa, however, cashed in on 25 of 34 free throws to Wisconsin's 18 of 28.

The defeat was the eighth of the season for Wisconsin—the team's second in conference play—against three victories. Iowa has a 9-3 tally sheet for the season and is 1-1 in the loop.

Jim Schulze, junior guard from Appleton, will be in the Lawrence college lineup tonight when the Vikes take on visiting Stevens Point. Tip-off time in Alexander gym is 7:30.

Seggink Hits 25, But Stout Loses

Menomonie—St. Cloud of Minnesota launched a last minute spurge Monday night to defeat Stout, 80-63, in a non-conference basketball game.

St. Cloud's Don Garruth took scoring honors with 28 points. Fred Seggink (of Neenah) had 21 for the losers.

Bearcats Hold Big Lead in AP Cage Poll

California Takes Over 2nd Spot From West Virginia

By The Associated Press
Cincinnati rules high and mighty over the college basketball world, and the Bearcats' lengthy reign appears almost certain to stretch at least another week.

One of the four major, unbeaten teams in the country, Cincinnati (10-0) was a landslide top choice today in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters around the country.

Receive 150 Firsts
The Bearcats were named first on 150 of the 173 ballots, collecting 1,686 points. California, which took over second in an exchange of positions with third-place West Virginia, had 11 firsts and 1,343 points. Bradley was fourth in a big promotion from its ninth of a week ago and Utah was fifth.

California's downfall Saturday at the hands of Southern California last Saturday ended a 25-game victory streak over a 2-season span and made things easier than ever for Cincinnati in the poll.

There's one real oddity in the list of top 20 teams. Kentucky isn't in the select group. Adolph Rupp's shooters were thirteenth a week ago. But when Georgia Tech handed Kentucky its fourth defeat the Wildcats plummeted out of the rankings.

The top 10, based on 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second etc. with first-place votes in parentheses:

- 1 Cincinnati (150) 1,686
- 2 California (11) 1,343
- 3 West Virginia (12) 1,140
- 4 Bradley 892
- 5 Utah 650
- 6 Georgia Tech (2) 619
- 7 Ohio State 574
- 8 Wake Forest 278
- 9 Illinois 257
- 10 Southern California 245

The Sacred Heart CYO basketball team defeated St. Therese, 61-51, Sunday in the Sacred Heart gym.

2,500 Brave Bad Weather

Washington '11' Given A Heroes' Welcome
Seattle—A heroes' welcome was handed Washington's Rose bowl victorious Huskies when they arrived back home Monday night from Long Beach, Calif.

A noisy crowd estimated at 2,500 braved light snow, rain and temperatures in the low 30s to greet Washington's squad of 44 players at the Seattle-Tacoma International airport.

Bob Schloredt, the all-American quarterback who guided the Huskies to a 44-8 victory over Wisconsin in the New Year's day classic, was the first to step from the team's chartered airplane. Clutched in his arms was the Helms trophy, awarded to him and George Fleming as the outstanding players of the Rose bowl game.

Schloredt and Fleming were handed the key to the city by Seattle Mayor Gordon Clinton. Each member of the team was introduced as they paraded before television cameras and microphones.

Another rally faced the Huskies at the University of Washington campus after a motorcade through the city.

Coach Jim Owens and his staff were not on hand for the welcoming back celebration. They were in New York to attend the annual NCAA convention.

Weary Celtics Top Syracuse

Scheduled for 5th Game in Five Days

Boston—The Boston Celtics will play their fifth game in as many days, and their third against Syracuse, in as many nights, in Providence tonight.

Under the NBA's weird scheduling the game also will be the fifth in as many cities for the travel-weary Celtics who are weakened by injuries. Jim Loscutoff is hospitalized with severe back and leg pains. Bill Sharman probably will not dress because of a sprained Achilles tendon.

Neither man played Monday night as the Celtics snapped a losing streak at three in defeating the Syracuse Nationals, 127-120.

The game was close — tied 22 times — until the fourth period when K. C. Jones and Tom Heinsohn hooped successive baskets for a 110-105 lead and the Nats never caught up. Boston used only eight players.

Norb Schaefer Bowls 602 KC Series

Norm Schaefer and Louis Dietz divided honors in Knights of Columbus American league bowling at the Elks club Monday night. Dietz slapped a 233 for Peerless laundry and finished at 567.

Schaefer bowled a 602 for Schreiter's tap.

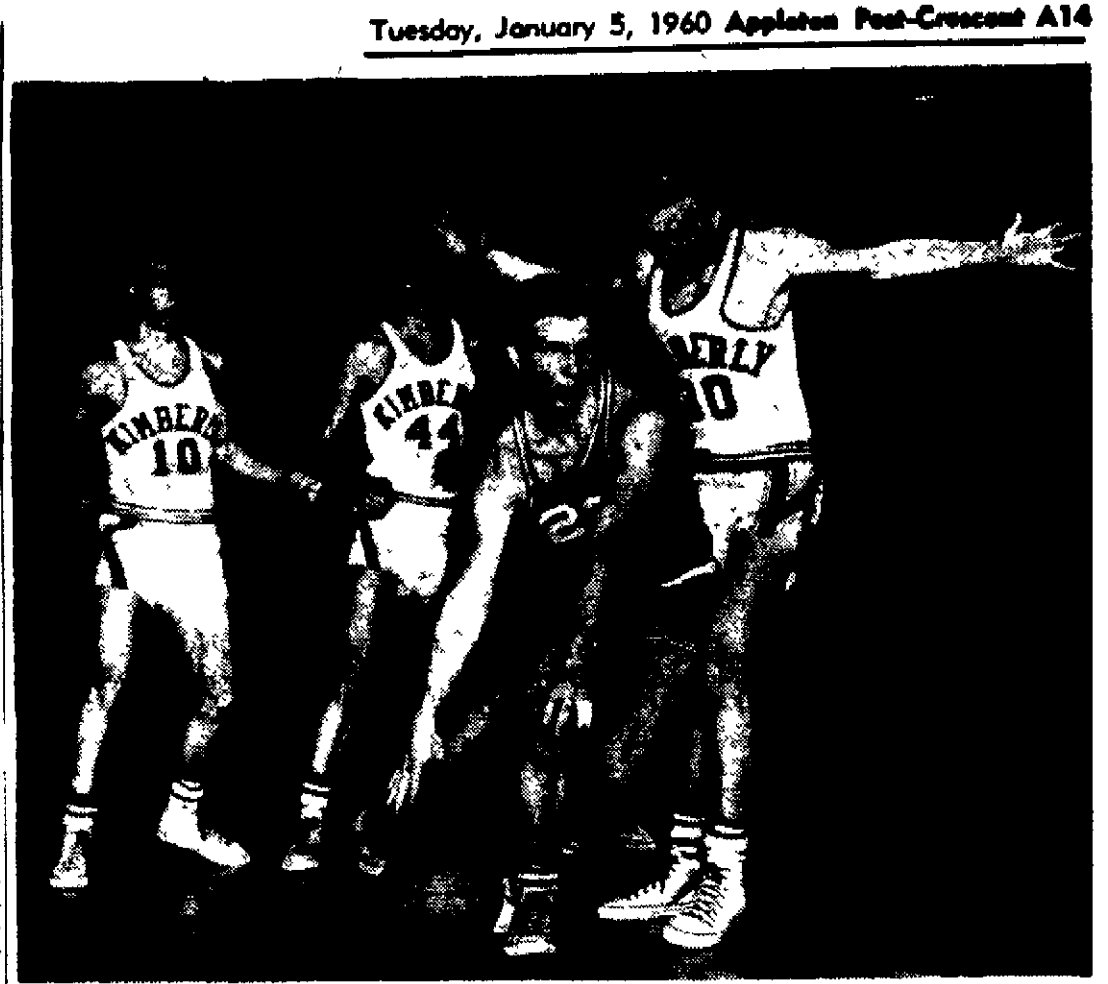

General Office (35-10) holds a 54-game lead after having it trimmed by one game.

Other honor scores: George Otto, 554; Norm Bunkelman, 554; Ferd Ebben, 582; Cy Lipper, 568; Frank Briske, 552; Dr. Larry Keller, 565.

Ron Waller Considers Playing for Chargers

Los Angeles — Ron Waller, onetime backfield star of the Los Angeles Rams, is thinking of playing for the Los Angeles Chargers in the new American Football league.

Waller, lately a boxing promoter, chatted Monday with Charger Owner Baron Hilton and said he would talk today with Frank Leahy, the club's general manager.

Get Line on Next Draft

Lombardi, Staff Attend Collegiate Convention

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — The pros are rubbing elbows with the amateurs this week.

Coach Vince Lombardi and aides Phil Bengtson, Norb Hecker and Bill Austin — plus Business Manager Jack Vainisi who also doubles in draft, are populating the national collegiate convention in New York.

Where's Red Cochran, the backfield coach? He's freezin' with the rest of us in Green Bay — but not for long. "Red" will go to Mobile, Ala., shortly to get thawed out for the Senior bowl game Saturday. And Verne Lewellen? He just returned from hot Arizona where he covered the all-star and Copper bowl games.

Make Meetings
All NFL coaching staffs annually make the NCAA meetings and this year the American league mentors will add to the 2-hotel (Manhattan and Astor) lobbying. The Packers will get first-hand information on hot draft prospects for the picking next November — or whenever the next draft is held.

Where's Tom Miller, the publicist? He's right in the middle of Packerland dropping little hints that the Packers have found it necessary to increase the price of tickets starting in 1960.

Jack Twyman, 'Stilt' Still Lead Scoring

New York — Cincinnati's Jack Twyman rolls along for the fourth straight week as top scorer in the National Basketball association although Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain has the best per game average.

Twyman, star of the Western division's last-place club, has scored 1,267 points in 40 games for an average of 31.6 per game. Wilt, "the Stilt", however, has 1,172 points in 32 games for a 36.6 average. The NBA determines its leader by total points, not averages.

The NBA figures, released today, includes games of Sunday.

Chamberlain, in second place, has a big margin over third-placer Bob Pettit of St. Louis. The Hawk ace has 909 points in 34 games for a 26.7 average. Next comes Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis with 855 points in 31 games for a 27.6 average.

Xavier JVs Rout Gresham, 100 to 42

The Xavier Catholic High school junior varsity basketball team bounced back from its only loss in eight starts with a 100-42 rout of Gresham Monday evening in the Xavier gym. Freshman Warren "Kip" Whittlinger scored 45 points to lead the winners, hitting on 20 of 25 field goal tries.

Ball-hawking guard Whittlinger had quarter totals of 14, 12, seven and 12 as the Hawks pressed most the way. His chief support came from running-mate Bob Rammer, who totaled 16. The Hawks scored 36 points in the 7-minute fourth quarter.

Colt '5' Wins ARD Consolation Crown

The Colts beat the Hawks, 48-35, to win the eighth grade consolation title in the Appletan Recreation department's basketball tournament.

The Crystal Printing team won the High school boys' title. In last Saturday's Post-Crescent, the box score — indicating a 65-57 Crystal win — was Baylor of Minneapolis with 855 correct, but the story element points in 31 games for a 27.6 average. (calling the Zombies the winners) was erroneous.

Continental Officials Meet With Keating

Proposed League May Ask Help From Congress, Courts

Washington — The top officials of baseball's proposed third major league were to meet today with Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-N.Y.) in what may be the first step toward asking congress to help the infant league get on its feet.

Founder William Shea of the Continental league described the meeting as "informal talk designed to learn Sen. Keating's thoughts on the matter of baseball and the Continental league."

However, in announcing the meeting, Keating's office noted that league President Branch Rickey and Shea reportedly have decided the time has come to seek aid from congress or the courts.

Indiana Takes 2nd Setback

The two men were dissatisfied with an American league denial last month that it plans any expansion at present. They also want assurance for the future.

The new circuit plans to begin play in 1951. The possibility one of the older leagues might expand into one of the new league's proposed cities could kill off any chance of a potential franchise owner there joining the Continental league.

As a member of the House two years ago, Keating sponsored a bill to exempt all but the commercial aspects of organized sports from federal anti-trust laws. The bill passed the House, but died in the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee.

'Y' Olympics Will Begin Thursday

Nine Firms in Field; 21 Events Are Slated

A field of nine teams opens play in the Appleton YMCA's Industrial Olympics at 7 p.m. Thursday. Chess, basketball, golf and basketball free throw shooting are on the opening agenda.

Organizations in the 1960 field, with directors' names, are: Appleton Wire Works, Bruce Henning, Mrs. Edwin Cunningham; Marathon, Don Kuehl and Ben Stephens; Lakeview, Bob Felix; Badger-Globe, John Kuckenbecker; Kimberly Mill, Ray Schwanke; Riverside Paper, John Murphy and Bob Goss; Woolen Mills, Don Johnson; IPC, Joe Wachuta; Bergstrom Paper, Jim Powers and Wayne Long.

One more team is being sought. Awards go to individual event winners with a team trophy to the team champion.

Marathon and Lakeview are defending co-champions.

The program will be made up of individual single-elimination tournaments.

New events this year are archery and indoor softball.

Events, with the number of men competing from each firm, follow: free throws, 5; basketball golf, 2; chess, 1; archery, 5; checkers, 1; cribbage, doubles and singles, 3; ping pong, doubles and singles, 3; bowling, 5; final period Kimberly counted six while the Chuters added five.

Swedish Quintet Is Suing AAU For Expenses

Oneida, N.Y. — The Swedish Olympic basketball team, banned by the Amateur Athletic Union from playing American college teams, is suing the AAU for expenses, the team manager says.

Ake Nilsson told a newsman Monday night the legal action for $5,000 had been filed in New York city. He said the amount was guaranteed the team for expenses on an American tour.

Nilsson said the International Amateur Basketball federation had sanctioned the tour and the Swedish Basketball federation had handled the arrangements.

Dan Ferris, honorary chairman of the AAU, banned the team's schedule on the ground it was arranged by a professional promoter, Jim McGregor.

Sophs Continue To Top Big Ten All-Tilts Scoring

Chicago — The Big Ten isn't usually considered a sophomore's league but three of the four top scorers in all games happen to be rookies.

Walt Bellamy, the Indiana junior, is third with 225 points in 11 games and a 20.4 average followed by rookie Don Nelson of Iowa with 214 points in 12 games for a 17.8 average.

slowing up the game, it could hurt basketball.

"Purdue used the same strategy on us," McCracken continued, "and I guess we can expect the rest of the league to follow suit."

Northwestern Coach Bill Rohr admitted his team slowed up play.

"We followed the script that Harley Knosher (freshman coach) brought back with him after scouring Indiana against Purdue," said Rohr "and that was to slow up against them."

Stops Bellamy

"Although Purdue succeeded in stopping Walt Bellamy with a collapsing defense, Knosher suggested we let one man follow Bellamy in the standard defense and just hope we could hold the rest of the Indiana team down."

Bellamy, held to eight points against Purdue but received little help from his mates. Sophomore Bill Cacciatore led Northwestern with 27 points.

Sophomores were instrumental in leading two other Big Ten teams to victory Monday night. Rookie Jerry Lucas scored 30 points in Ohio State's 97-73 triumph over Illinois at Columbus and Don Nelson hit for 22 points in Iowa's 71-64 decision over Wisconsin.

There was no slow-down in the Ohio State attack. The Buckeyes took a 51-36 halftime lead and never let up against the Illini. Larry Siegfried helped the OSU attack with 26 points.

Bears Get Revenge Against Trojans, 60-45

Wake Forest Runs Winning Streak To Six Games

By The Associated Press

California's Bears are off and winging again in college basketball today after needing only 48 hours to get solid revenge against the Southern California team that snapped their winning streak at 25 straight.

Beaten, 65-57, Saturday night by the Trojans, the Bears came back with a decisive 60-45 victory at the same Los Angeles court Monday night and did it breezing despite the loss of 8-10 ace Darrall Imhoff for 13 minutes because of a cut mouth.

So gripping was the touted Cal Bear-hug defense that Southern Cal, upped to tenth ranking nationally after its Saturday shocker, managed only six field goals in the field and hit only 32 per cent of its shots.

"They're Coachable"

"One thing about these kids," coach Pete Newell says of Cal's defending NCAA champs. "They're coachable—they learn quickly and they adapt quickly."

Monday night's game was their third meeting. Cal won the first test, 65-61, in overtime. This time, the Bears made it look easy as they rolled to their tenth victory in 11 games. With Imhoff sidelined, Bill McClintock took over as the scoring leader with 17 points.

Cal's victory came in the second game of a Los Angeles doubleheader, which opened with UCLA's 55-54 squeaker over Washington. Stanford chipped in with a West coast shocker, snapping twice-beaten Oregon State's 9-game win streak, 43-38.

Fifth-ranked Utah (11-1) opened its Skyline conference campaign with a 78-62 victory over Montana.

Eight-rated Wake Forest (8-2) ran its winning streak to six with its fourth straight Atlantic Coast conference victory, 77-62, over Clemson.

Three records were set as Maryland toppled touring Yale, 103-80, behind Al Bunge's 43 points. Bunge's total was an individual Terp mark as were Maryland's 103 points and the two-team total of 183 points.

Sophomores Dave DeBusschere (24) and Charlie North (23) combined for 47 points as up-and-coming Detroit made it 10-1 with a 94-78 victory over Creighton.

Heileman Buys Kingsbury Firm

La Crosse — Purchase of 51 per cent of the voting stock in Kingsbury Breweries company of Sheboygan was announced Monday by the G. Heileman Brewing company.

Roy Kumm, Heileman president, said in a letter to stockholders that 177,117 shares of Kingsbury stock were bought from William, Emil and Donald Pauly, principal stockholders in the Pauly corporation.

The purchase price of $2.25 a share amounts to $398,513. William Pauly recently retired as a Kingsbury director, saying he wanted to spend more time in California where he has large oil and financial interests.

O. H. Cole will remain as Kingsbury president.

With the combined breweries Heileman will control a beer production of more than one million barrels annually. Kingsbury recently acquired a 160,000-barrel plant at Sioux City, Iowa.

Kumm said Kingsbury earnings in 1958 were $98,127 and that the firm's net worth is $1,442,017.

Kingsbury's main brewery is in Sheboygan but it has regional offices and some plant facilities in Manitowish reported Monday.

Oneida Indian Land Claims Documented

Evidence Being Presented Today In Washington

Post-Crescent News Service

Oneida—Final documentary evidence in the Oneida Indian land claim case was to be presented in Washington, D. C. today, according to a report of tribal attorneys at the semi-annual Oneida tribal council meeting here Monday afternoon.

Final documentary evidence on the valuation of almost 4 million acres of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan land, as of 1832 was due from both Indian and department of justice attorneys.

The Indians claim a half-interest in the large tract, $2.5 million at the rate of $1.25 an acre. Valuation hearings were held before the Indian claims commission in Washington during the week of Nov. 2.

The commission previously had ruled that the tract was "unjustly" taken 128 years ago from the ancestors of the 4,000 Indians ruling "in due course."

Ely M. Aaron, Chicago, attorney for the Indians, said his firm also would submit a brief and proposed findings of fact in the case. Oral arguments, he said, probably will be scheduled in the spring or early next summer and the final commission ruling on the land valuation then will be made.

Lack Quorum

No official business was conducted at the tribal council meeting due to a lack of the required quorum of 50 Oneidas. Only 12 tribal members attended the afternoon meeting.

E. J. Riley, Ashland, of the Great Lakes Indian agency, reported that no federal money is available for a revolving credit fund to aid Indians in building homes on tribal lands at Oneida. The present federal program is over committed by $1,320,000, he said, but a proposed bill in the senate would make an added $15 million available for Indian social and economic welfare.

The Oneidas hope to obtain federal credit to build and improve homesites on small tracts of tribal lands assigned to Indian families in the Oneida area.

Also discussed at the meeting were relations with town of Oneida officials. One tribal member complained that township officials were neglecting to maintain and gravel town roads adjoining Indian lands in the area. It was decided to take the matter up with the Outagamie county highway commissioner.

Another tribal member complained that township officials were attempting to assess Oneida-owned livestock as personal property. Riley read an opinion from an Indian bureau attorney that cattle acquired by Indians through a federal aid program are not subject to local taxation and officially are "issue property."

A discussion on accepting $18,000 being held in annuity funds by the U.S. Treasury for the Oneidas under a treaty of 1894 will be held at a special tribal meeting or at the next regular council session in July, it was decided.

Teachers Give U. S. Schools Low Grades in NEA Report

The nation's teachers gave no more than a D grade to the nation's schools this week and said some of the scores were low.

The message to parents is in a 16-page pamphlet called "Will Your Child Get a Quality Education?" and is published by the National Education association. Among the findings:

Of every 10 pupils in the fifth grade, six will finish high school; of every three who enter high school, one will leave without a diploma.

College Figures

Among the top quarter of the ablest high school graduates, three boys in 10 and four girls in 10 do not enter college.

The chances are one in 14 that this year the child's elementary school teacher will not be a college graduate; nine in 10 that at some time during a child's years in elementary school one of his teachers will not be a college graduate.

Only one elementary school in five now has a library. Nearly a fifth of the high schools offer neither physics nor chemistry; nearly a fifth

State Files 2 Suits Against Railway Firm

Alleges Improper Work Conditions at Appleton Junction

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The state of Wisconsin today filed two lawsuits against the Chicago and North Western railway company for allegedly failing to maintain proper working conditions for its employees at the Appleton Junction railway station.

Attorney General John W. Reynolds said he acted at the request of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission, which claims the railroad has violated its rules calling for showers with hot water, separate toilet facilities for employees, locker rooms and an adequate heating system.

The railroad some time ago moved its Appleton railroad facilities from a complying building to the building at Appleton Junction which the state says is lacking in the equipment required in the Industrial Commission code.

The attorney general said the railroad will be asked to pay a forfeiture of $2,900 and that the state also wants a court injunction to prohibit operation of the station in violation of the regulation.

The high Tuesday in the Fox Cities was 16 above. The warmest spot in the state was Milwaukee, with a 20 reading. Park Falls' thermometer went no higher than 2 below Tuesday.

The national low was a 29 below reading in Aberdeen, S. D., while Fort Myers, Fla., enjoyed 84 degree weather. Only Florida and California escaped the frigid winter blasts, however.

High winds drifted snow over a wide area in the plains states and in the midwest but no heavy snowfalls were reported.

The roads in Wisconsin are in good winter driving condition, although the state patrol reported some areas of hard-packed snow spots.

Researcher Says New Object Is a Gauge of Success

How does a group of men, when ordered to do so, go about creating a new product for a big business?

It's a matter of taking your hands out of your pockets and coming up with a "thing" that will show its creators what they have accomplished and where they have failed.

David Smith, member of an 8-man Kimberly-Clark research team, told the Appleton Lions club Monday.

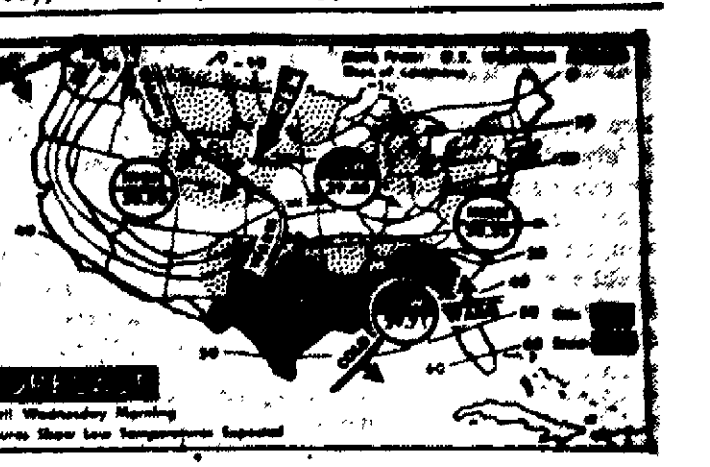

Smith said most theories on creativity are not practical because they are simply techniques.

"Autonomy of Object"

The theory accepted by Kimberly-Clark when it sets out to create new products was devised by a Boston product research group and is called the "autonomy of object" theory, Smith said.

It means, he said, that when one begins working on an object it assumes characteristics work in the shop on a ter and seems to talk back to its creator and tells him what he has and whether he is succeeding.

Kimberly-Clark, after adopting this plan, gave eight so wealthy we don't want to get our hands dirty."

Icy Fingers Clutch at Fox Cities

The Fox Cities, the station and the entire Midwest were clutched in the icy fingers of the Old Man Winter today as thermometers greeted the dawn with sub-zero temperatures.

In the Fox Cities the thermometer touched zero about 7 a. m. and continued to slip until it reached 4 below at 9 a. m. The recovery was slow. At 10:30 a. m. it had reached only 2 below.

However, the weatherman sees some relief in store, with a forecast of merely zero for a low tonight and the possibility of "balmy" teen temperatures Wednesday.

The state lows ranged from 22 below at Grantsburg to 7 above at Kenosha, with most readings on the sub side of zero.

The high Tuesday in the Fox Cities was 16 above. The warmest spot in the state was Milwaukee, with a 20 reading. Park Falls' thermometer went no higher than 2 below Tuesday.

The national low was a 29 below reading in Aberdeen, S. D., while Fort Myers, Fla., enjoyed 84 degree weather. Only Florida and California escaped the frigid winter blasts, however.

Kaukauna — Despite the 18-degree temperature Sunday afternoon, four members of the Kaukauna Boat club were noted of a 4-mile cruise on the Fox river.

The trip was of necessity as high water recently had washed away part of the landing dock at the club. The group, in two boats, traveled four miles downstream to retrieve the lost parts.

Making the cold trip were Wilbur Kobussen and his son, Jerry, Earl Luedtke and Bill Egan.

Two Marathon Division Executives Honored at Retirement Party

Neenah — A retirement party honored John Stevens and Leo E. Croy of the Marathon division of American Can company Monday night at the Neenah guest house.

Stevens retired Dec. 31 and was a consultant to American Can company and former president of the Marathon corporation. Croy, a Marathon division vice president, will retire at the end of this month. Friends and business associates of the executives attended the get-together.

Stevens joined Marathon in October, 1929, as manager of the firm's Ashland, plant. He served as director of manufacturing, manager of Marathon's Rothschild plant and vice president and director of manufacturing before being elected to the board of directors of Marathon in January, 1933.

Chairman of Board

In July, 1946, Stevens was elected president of Marathon Paper Mills of Canada Limited, now Marathon Corporation of Canada Limited, and was named chairman of the board of that subsidiary in January, 1955.

He was named president of Marathon corporation in April 1952, and was elected chairman of the board in January, 1956. In September, 1955, he also was elected president, general manager and a director of Marathon Southern corporation.

In December, 1957, after Marathon's merger with American Can company, Stevens was elected a vice president and a director of that organization. In December, 1958, he resigned those posts and became a consultant to the company.

Croy joined Marathon as a sales representative in October, 1923. He served as stock products sales manager from 1925 until 1929, when he became assistant general sales manager. He was appointed general sales manager in 1930.

Marketing Division

In 1937, Croy was elected to a vice president's post and to the board of directors of Marathon corporation. He became executive vice president in charge of the marketing division in April, 1952.

In addition to his Marathon corporation positions, he was named a vice president and director of Marathon Southern corporation in September 1955, and in December, 1955, was elected president and a director of Marathon Packaging Limited to Toronto, Ont. He became a director of Marathon Corporation of Canada Limited in February, 1956.

Croy was elected senior vice president of Marathon corporation in November, 1957. After Marathon's merger with American Can company, he was named as a division vice president and later became vice president in charge of special projects.

Divorcee to Lose Custody Of 4 Children

Ruling Backs Order Of Juvenile Court On Neglect Charge

Madison — A juvenile court order terminating parental rights of a Winnebago county mother to four of her five children was upheld by the Wisconsin Supreme court today.

The decision, written by Justice Thomas Fairchild, reversed a major portion of a circuit court order returning the five children to Mrs. Joanne Johnson of Winnebago. As modified it permits her to keep the youngest child, Cheryl Ann.

Mrs. Johnson had been given custody of the children earlier in a divorce order. The Winnebago County Welfare department successfully petitioned juvenile Judge S. J. Luchsinger for termination of parental rights, contending she was neglecting them.

Judge Luchsinger's order was upset in a circuit court decision by Judge Helmut Arps. The state department of public welfare appealed the circuit court decision, contending the court did not have the right to upset the juvenile court's order unless a clear abuse of discretion could be shown.

"The juvenile court evidently felt that a good future for these children is far more probable," the supreme court said, "if they are made available for adoption and that termination of parental rights is necessary to that end."

Program to Check Flood Conditions Studied at Neenah

Council Approves 4-Point Plan; Mayor Offers Advice to Residents

Neenah — A 4-point program approved informally by the city council and several suggestions for property owners concerning the flooded conditions which hit Neenah over the Christmas weekend, have been offered by Mayor Chester Bell.

Bell said, "the combination of heavy rains and melting snow... presented our city with the most serious problem we have faced in years. The prevention of a recurrence of these deplorable conditions must be assured as soon as possible."

The mayor added that it is obvious that the condition results from a mingling of storm water with sanitary wastes, to the extent that sanitary sewers become overloaded until the sewers back up in the basements.

Board Will Receive Final School Plans

Special Meeting Jan. 13 at Neenah To Get New Junior High Specifications

Neenah — Final plans for the new junior high school will be presented to the board of education at a special meeting Wednesday, Jan. 13, the board was advised Monday night.

After review by the school board, the plans will be presented to the council for approval and a date set for the taking bids.

It is hoped bids can be taken in March so construction can begin early this spring.

Frank X. Hochholzer, board vice chairman, was named the board's delegate to the state school boards' convention at Milwaukee Jan. 20 to 22.

Overtime Work

Earl Brien, supervisor of properties, explained to the board why some of the janitors had more overtime hours than other janitors. These janitors, such as at the high school, Kimberly school and Hoover school, had to be present at the school at night when vocational school classes were held.

Those at the high school also have to be on hand for games and dances. Those who drive busses also put in additional hours and also for taking teams to out-of-town games.

These janitors, the board was informed, are paid on a straight hourly rate for the additional hours.

Brien also reported that the steel lockers ordered in May but delayed because of the steel strike had been received and were installed during the Christmas vacation. Replaced during the vacation were the 130 old chairs of the cafeteria which were in poor condition.

Four bubblers were installed at Roosevelt school and a new main lighting panel installed at Kimberly school. All schools were cleaned during the vacation and a new seal coat applied to the high school gymnasium floor.

'How to Discipline Your Children' was discussed by Neenah Center Homemakers leaders at the first in a series of leader training meetings Monday afternoon at Mrs. Spencer Breitreiter's home, route 1, Neenah. With charts and booklets used for the session, from left, are Mrs. Harold Case, Mrs. Breitreiter and Mrs. John Arnold.

Discipline as Guide Toward Maturity, Homemaker's Topic

Neenah — If a visitor's children are about to wreck your furnishings, do you have the right to discipline them? When two couples are very good friends should the children in one family speak of the other adults as "Fred and Helen"?

These and similar situations will be discussed by Winnebago county Homemakers clubs at January meetings, when the monthly topic is "Do's and Don'ts in Discipline."

Children are no different today than they were years ago. The difference lies in the fact we have different attitudes today and children have more opportunities, says Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent, who will conduct the series of leader training meetings for the topic. One of the modern philosophies is the importance of growth and development of the child and giving the child a chance to make choices.

Definition She defines discipline as a guidance and training which strengthens a person in his growth toward maturity. "Discipline need not mean dictatorship or punishment. How to guide children is one of parents' greatest concerns."

Discussion of a booklet, "Growing With Discipline," written by Miss Viola Hunt, University of Wisconsin extension service, will be included in the project.

Miss Hunt points out, "You would like specific answers for your problems. You go to the cookbook for a recipe and to the dictionary for the meaning of a word, but you are on your own when Johnny misbehaves."

"There can be no real freedom without discipline; it is important for every age and every group. Children want to do what is right, and in today's world they cannot be left to find out the best way unguided by parents and adults. It is not fair to them," warns Miss Hunt.

Misbehavior Why do children misbehave? They don't know what is right or what would happen, they may be curious, they want to be independent, they mean to be helpful, they may be bored, they love the lime light or they may be angry.

Miss Hunt lists three kinds of control, the adult dictatorship, the child dictatorship or consideration of each other.

Controls In the adult dictatorship, children are viewed as possessions with the will of parents as supreme. In the child dictatorship, children have freedom to make their own decisions before they have wisdom and experience to do so and before they have ability to accept the responsibility for their own mistakes.

In the third type of control, parents and the child work together on what is best for the child, both for the present and for the future.

Parental Guides The list of guides for parents includes showing love and affection, showing respect for children, understanding what children are like at various ages, accepting children's feelings, being firm and consistent and agreeing on methods in front of the child with parents supporting each other.

The best test of punishment says Miss Hunt, is whether it accomplishes what you are after without having other serious effects. "Growing with discipline is not one-sided; adults grow as well as the children with whom they are working."

Busy Vacation Program at Three Centers

Menasha — A busy vacation program at three recreation centers Dec. 21-31 was reported by Robert Vanevenhoven, recreation director.

More than 3,000 youngsters visited the Butte des Morts and Jefferson school centers and the Memorial building.

A vice president at the First National in 1956, Dawson has been active in community affairs, having served as a director and president of the Neenah-Menasha Community Chest, president of the Neenah club and currently was serving as a director of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce.

He also was treasurer for the town of Neenah and a member of the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian church. The Dawsons are moving from their home at Adella beach to Boulder this week.

game room in the last two weeks.

Park and recreation department personnel were concerned with the large number of older boys and girls visiting the centers, whose presence made supervision of the smaller children difficult because of lack of space, Vanevenhoven said. Plans will be made before next year's holiday vacation to separate by age groups at the centers.

Mild weather and the resultant lack of ice rink skating added to the problem, he said.

Attendance at Butte des Morts totaled 1,134 grade and junior high school boys and girls; Jefferson school attracted 743; and the Memorial building game room, 1,178.

School Board Wants Study of New Law

Informational Session Would Explain Rule for City and Rural Education Units

Neenah — School board members Monday thought it might be beneficial to both the city and rural school boards to have a joint informational session soon to hear of the provisions of the new state law putting all land in the state into high school districts.

The thought of such a meeting resulted from an explanation of the new law, known as 48's, by Victor K. Kimball, an assistant state superintendent. Kimball outlined the history of the law and explained some of its provisions.

Several board members said they had talked with some members of rural school boards, who also are studying the new law, and thought a joint informational meeting to learn more of the

The law sets a July 1, 1962, deadline for the various districts to take action. After that date the county school committee must decide which rural districts will be attached to particular high school districts.

Kimball pointed out the law goes back to a 1943 act of the legislature which set up the county school committees and to the change in the tuition law in 1947. Rural districts pay tuition, not on the basis of the number of children they have attending high school, but of the proportion of their equalized valuation to the valuation of the rest of the rural area in the county. The new bill has been under der study for quite a few years and was introduced though not acted on by the 1957 legislature. Action was delayed so that more informational meetings on its provisions and hearings could be held throughout the state, Kimball mentioned.

He outlined to the board the differences between a city school district, a common school district, a union free high school district and a unified school district.

In a unified school district, the school board has the powers of the annual meeting such as voting bond issues, setting taxes and having fiscal independence from city councils. This is the Milwaukee system's setup and has been adopted by some other cities.

Neenah Kiwanians To Seat Officers

Neenah — New officers of the Neenah Kiwanis club will be installed at Wednesday noon's meeting at the Valley Inn. Charles Derr of Fond du Lac will be the installing officer.

Two important improvements for the home are insulation and aluminum siding from Norman Brothers Insulation. Roofing and Siding company, 911 S. Commercial street, Neenah. Shown above are two Fiberglas applicators, Art Klepps and George Rosenthal. Phone at Norman Brothers is PA 2-7071.

Norman Brothers advises homeowners to improve their present homes with continual lasting protection and money saving advantages of Altex, the solid permanent type siding.

Altex is the combination of three high quality materials into one lasting product. It is a combination of insulation board, aluminum siding and baked enamel finish.

Norman Brothers said not to confuse Altex with ordinary hollow, unsupported aluminum siding. Each Altex panel is backed and supported by national brand rigid insulating board, free from dry rot, termite attack and water resistant. The siding material is Reynolds or Alcoa aluminum, unusual for structural strength and attractive deep shadow lines.

The terrific finish, Norman Brothers says, is baked enamel, three coats which is baked on at 320 degrees F. to last for years and years of wear.

The siding comes in your choice of flat-tone colors, white, dawn gray, daffodil, yellow, parkway green, southern cream and island coral. All easily wash clean with a garden hose and may be repainted when a color change is desired.

Use aluminum siding to save paint dollars, fire proof, sound proof, strong and rigid, saves fuel dollars. But be sure it is Altex, Norman Brothers say.

Lavelle Motors is the oldest dealership in Neenah and has not changed hands, or names, since its inception. "We're still handling the same fine product that we started with," Lavelle said.

The garage is equipped to handle all Chrysler corporation cars and features not only the Plymouth but the Imperial, the Chrysler and Valiant cars as well.

In speaking of the 1960 Plymouth, Lavelle said today that this is the strongest and quietest in the car's history because of the unified body and frame structure. Two new engines — a six for economy and a V-8 for high acceleration — are offered this year.

The Plymouth is built to have longer life, Lavelle said, with fewer repair bills. The noise level inside the car has been reduced 50 per cent through new insulating procedures and a unique tuning process to control vibration. The cars are completely restyled, inside and out, for greater beauty and for improved driver and passenger comfort. Advance testing indicates that buyers may expect to travel eight to 10 miles farther on a tank of gas.

See and drive the new Plymouth, Lavelle invites readers. The showroom is located at 230 W. Wisconsin avenue. Telephone number is PA 2-4277.

3. The possible addition of further pumping equipment at strategic points is being considered.

4. It was decided to explore the possibilities of retaining a form of competent engineers to make a study of Neenah's existing sewer systems.

Mayor's Suggestions In his suggestions for the property owners, Mayor Bell pointed out that it seems probable that large quantities of storm waters are introduced into the sanitary sewers through drain tiles surrounding homes and buildings. "Much of this can be avoided if each building is equipped with eave troughs from which down spouts are extended away from the house," he explained.

If land around the house is back-filled to slope away from the home, the water escaping from drain tiles into the sanitary sewers will be greatly reduced, Bell added.

The mayor also said that the connection of a stand pipe or riser in the floor drain is frequently effective in preventing sewer backup. However, this method should not be undertaken without the advice of a competent plumber or building contractor because in some instances it is not helpful and may only intensify the problem, he said.

Sump Pump Installation of a sump pump with a discharge pipe emptying some distance from the house often provides substantial relief, Bell suggested.

"While the city is taking the steps outlined and exploring general changes in the sewer system, individual home owners who have suffered from flooding are urged to secure competent advice as to the best means of alleviating their own situations. Only by hearty cooperation between the city government and the home owner can this problem be avoided in the future," the mayor said.

"No other problem presents the same urgency. New streets and other plans included in our current budget must take second place to a correction of this situation," Bell affirmed.

Barnstable said he was turning right from N. Commercial onto W. Canal street and was blinded by the sun. He said he did not see Mrs. Wyman who was walking north across W. Canal street until he saw her husband jump back.

He said he stopped, helped place Mrs. Wyman in his car and then took her and her husband to a physician for treatment.

Pleads Guilty Of Murder in Fatal Shooting

Painesville, Ohio—Floyd E. Hargrove Monday entered a guilty plea in municipal court on a first degree murder charge in the sniper slaying of the man whose wife he loved.

Judge Albert W. Hayer bound him over to the Lake county grand jury without bond.

Hargrove, who was not represented by counsel, appeared to be in a state of shock. He was unshaven, obviously downcast, and had to be half-carried both into and out of the courtroom.

Weapon Not Found

Although Hargrove admitted shooting Charles R. Clark, 35, through a kitchen window of the Clarks' home in nearby Mentor Christmas eve, no weapon has been recovered and there are conflicting details in his account, authorities said.

Hargrove, 35-year-old delivery truck driver and gospel worker, was arrested three hours after Clark, a Sunday school superintendent and Boy Scout leader, was struck in the right temple by a rifle slug that came crashing through glass from the darkness.

Clark's beautiful brunette wife, Lois, 30, and Hargrove, a divorced father of five, admitted an 8-month love affair that broke off a few weeks ago, Sheriff William B. Evans said.

Mrs. Clark, mother of four, was not implicated in the shooting in any way, authorities said. She spent the weekend at the home of Clarks' parents in Rochester, N.Y., and took her four children with her.

3 Persons Die in Michigan Crash

L'Anse, Mich.—Three persons were killed Sunday in a 2-car crash on icy U.S. 41 near this eastern upper peninsula community.

The victims were William Stephen Douglas, 22, of Escanaba; Richard Henry Gasman, 22, also of Escanaba, and Gasman's bride of a few weeks, Roberta, 21.

The two men were students at Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton. They were returning to school after spending the holidays at home.

State police said the other driver, Sam Sakelos, 40, of rural Marquette, Mich., was in fair condition at a L'Anse hospital.

Map Record of Hikes, Other Trips Interesting Project

BY CAPPY DICK

Every experienced adventurer keeps a log, or diary of the things he does—the trips taken, the places visited, the things seen and the things that happened. This is what boy and girl hikers should do. Months later it will be fun to look back through the log book and recall the experiences that were enjoyed.

Keep your adventure record in a notebook big enough for you to draw maps in it as in the adjoining picture. Jot down something about each hike or trip you take. Where a map will be useful in showing the places visited, draw one on a page adjoining the handwritten notes.

There will always be plenty of things for you to write about. Tell every detail that will help you recall the trip after many months have passed. Tell how you cooked a stew at the campfire, tell about the waterfall you discovered on a hike along a creek, tell about the wild animals you saw scurrying through the woods, and so on. If you take photographs on Draw maps in big book.

Your trips, leave spaces on the pages of the notebook where the pictures can be pasted after they have been developed and printed.

Even a trip downtown can be recorded with a map of the places you went and handwritten notes about the things you saw. Trips to the museums can also be mapped. (Copyright, 1960)

Maureen O'Hara to Play Mrs. Miniver Role

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

New York—(AP)—Maureen O'Hara, the Emerald Isle's gift to Hollywood, may turn out to be the bravest woman in television.

On Jan. 7, Miss O'Hara will play the part of Mrs. Miniver in a CBS adaptation of a film classic of Miss O'Hara World War II and "Mrs. Miniver," as just about every moviegoer knows, is practically synonymous with Greer Garson.

Maureen, however, seems blithely unconcerned that comparison between the two actresses is inevitable.

Bob Hope to Emcee April Awards Show

Hollywood—(AP)—Bob Hope will be master of ceremonies for the 32nd annual Academy Awards show April 4. The awards will be telecast in a 90-minute program.

It will be the eighth time since 1939 that Hope has been master of ceremonies for the awards presentation.

in that spot, is looking for a new berth.

If you don't think television is making an effort to upgrade its programs, hear this: The second CBS "Sunday Sports Spectacular" (Jan. 10, 2 p.m.) will concern itself with polo—an all-star game, in fact, from Boca Raton, Fla. You can hardly get more qualitative than that.

Lincoln Center for the performing arts, which when completed will house the Metropolitan Opera association, the New York Philharmonic and other high caliber cultural organizations, has signed Robert Saudek associates as producers and packagers for TV shows originating there. Saudek produced the recent series of Leonard Bernstein-New York Philharmonic programs for NBC's Startime, as well as the late lamented "omnibus." First shows are expected to be seen by network audiences next spring.

Arlene Francis Picked for Role

Will Replace Late Margaret Sullivan In 'Sweet Love'

New York—(AP)—Co-producer Martin Gabel has signed up his wife, Arlene Francis, to replace the late Margaret Sullivan in the play "Sweet Love Remember'd."

The role was left vacant Friday by the sudden death of Miss Sullivan during the Miss Francis play's first week of try-out in New Haven, Conn. Authorities indicated she may have died of an accidental overdose of sleeping pills.

Gabel and his partner, Henry M. Margolis, said the remainder of the play's out-of-town tour, including 2-week runs in Boston and Philadelphia, has been cancelled. He said its Broadway opening has been set back from Feb. 4 to Feb. 15.

Miss Francis will not be available for rehearsals until she completes an engagement in Miami, Fla. She starred here last season with Joseph Cotten in "Once More, With Feeling."

A memorial service for Miss Sullivan was held Monday at Christ Protestant Episcopal church in Greenwich, Conn. She and her husband, Kenneth Arthur Wagg, a British industrialist and theatrical producer, lived in Greenwich.

Burial will be at St. Mary's White Chapel Episcopal church in Lancaster county, Va., but Miss Sullivan's family has set no date yet. The actress was born in Norfolk, Va.

Plays Announced For Shakespearean Festival in Canada

Stratford, Ontario, Canada—"Romeo and Juliet," "King John" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" are the three plays which will be presented at the Stratford Shakespearean festival during the summer of 1960.

As announced previously, Julie Harris will play Juliet Romeo, it was made known today, will be Bruno Gerussi, young Canadian actor from Vancouver.

Gerussi was signed for Romeo at his home in Stratford during a 5-day Christmas vacation from the National Phoenix theater touring production of "Mary Stuart." It is also expected that he will appear in one or both of the other plays.

A graduate of the Banff School of Fine Arts and the Seattle Repertory Play House, Gerussi has appeared in all but one of the Stratford festivals since 1954.
